WOMAN DRUGGED, TIED AND CACCED BY TWO NEGROES

Burglars Frightened Off While Ransacking House.

ONE SUSPECT UNDER ARREST

Mrs. Lillian McDonald Discovered by Husband Unconscious and Bound to Chair.

The boldest and most outrageous burglary that has occurred in Atlanta during recent years was committed at nightfall yesterday, when two masked negro men entered the home of Mrs. Lillian McDonald, at 42 McDaniel street, and, after binding, blindfolding and chloroforming her, ransacked the house.

It is believed they were frightened away by a tiny Pomeranian dog, "Tootsie," who was kicked almost to death by the robbers. Thirty minutes after they had left the house, Mr. McDonald, returning from work, found his wife, unconscious from the effects of the drug, bound to a reclining chair dangerously near an open grate.

One Suspect Arrested.

A squad of detectives, plain-clothes and uniformed policemen are working all the negro settlements in the effort to locate a negro answering the description of one of the burglars given by Mrs. McDonald. Banton Bridges, 19 years old, a negro laborer, was arrested near the scene of the burglary about an hour after it happened, by Detectives Webb and Bullard, and is held on suspicion. He denies any connection with the crime.

Mrs. McDonald quickly recovered from the ordeal, and it is not believed she will suffer serious consequences. She was able to give the detectives a minute description of the robber who bound and blindfolded her. The other one, she did not see.

Saw Two Suspicious Men.

The burglary occurred about 5:30 o'clock. Mrs. McDonald, while on the front porch, noticed two negro men lounging beside a shade tree on the sidewalk fronting her home, but paid them little attention.

She returned to her room, where she sat in a reclining chair drawn close to the open grate. About 5:30 o'clock she heard the sound of a footfall upon the rug directly behind her. Thinking her husband had come home thirty minutes earlier than usual, and was trying to surprise her, she did not turn her head.

A second later, she felt a hand upon her head. She was wearing a black scarf thrown loosely around her hair. It was jerked roughly over her head. A heavy hand fell upon her shoulder and pressed her back into the chair. At the same time a negro ran between her and the grate.

Threatened With Knife.

"Grab her hand," he called to the man behind, who held his hand upon her shoulder.

"If you make a move or scream, I'll cut your throat," he warned.

The negro wore a mask. He continually fumbled with it, as it threatened to fall below his eyes. He got a long cloth from a near-by chair and tied it across Mrs. McDonald's throat and around the back of her chair. The black scarf was tied across her eyes. Pulling the chloroform-soaked cloth from his pocket, one of the men placed it to her nostrils.

Room Was Ransacked.

That was all Mrs. McDonald remembered except the violent barking of her pet Pomeranian, until she was awakened upon her husband's arrival. That the robbers ransacked the room was shown by the disordered condition of the fixtures. The bureau drawers were pulled out and their contents jumbled into a disordered mass. They made away with very litttle, however.

When Mr. McDonald, who is employed in the clerical department of the Union Lumber and Box Manufacturing company, returned home at 6 o'clock, the front door was unlocked and open. Suspecting trouble, he called for his wife. There was no answer.

He ran into the sitting room. His wife reclined in the chair before the fireplace. The odor of chloroform had filled the room, and she was bound to the chair.

Awakened With Difficulty.

It was with some difficulty that the husband managed to wake Mrs. McDonald. She was too weak to talk for several minutes. When she recovered sufficiently to tell of the robbery, he immediately called police headquarters. Under charge of Assistant Chief E. L. Jett, a patrol load of reserves and detectives hurried to the McDonald home.

A substantial clue to one of the burglars was discovered in a thumbprint upon a white celluloid comb upon Mrs. McDonald's dressing table. The print has been turned over to police Bertillon experts, and a reproduction has been made.

No one saw the robbers enter the home. The section is thickly populated with residences, but large shade trees obscure the house.

Twice Across Ocean To Get Cure for Wife Who Is Consumptive

Dr. Heid Returns With Friedmann Culture Which He Hopes Will Save Wife.

New York, February 6.—Hurrying homeward from abroad with tuberculosis serum in his possession that he says is the first of the widely-discussed Friedmann culture to be brought to this country, Dr. Austin B. Heid, a physician of Pittsburg, arrived on the steamship Pottsdam from Europe today and at once took a train for his home, where his wife, a consumptive, awaits the arrival of what Dr. Heid hopes will be a cure for her. Dr. Heid has enough baccili only for one patient, he declared. That patient will be his wife.

Dr. Heid was met at quarantine by Dr. Milton H. Foster, of the Ellis Island Health service, and questioned in behalf of the United States government about the Friedmann cure. Dr. Heid told Dr. Foster he had been convinced of the efficacy of the cure and had obtained from Dr. Friedmann just enough serum to treat a patient suffering from tuberculosis of the bone. Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann, the German scientist who discovered the serum, last month was offered $1,000,000 by Charles E. Finlay, a banker of this city, if he would cure 95 out of 100 patients to be placed under his care. The banker's interest in the serum resulted from the fact that a relative by marraige suffers with tuberculosis.

He Inoculates His Wife.

Pittsburg, Pa., February 6.—Dr. Austin B. Heid, a local physician, arrived home tonight from Berlin, bringing with him the tuberculosis serum discovered by Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann. A short time after reaching her Dr. Heid inoculated his wife. Dr. Heid announced tonight that he was unable to get serum for a single treatment from the discoverer, Dr. Friedmann, but said he procured the serum from Dr. Piorkowski, said to be a well-known bacteriologist in Europe.

Washington, February 6.—Sufferers from pulmonary tuberculosis who have looked with hope towards this government's inquiry into the recently reported cure found by Dr. Friedrick Friedmann, of Berlin, soon will be able to read an official report upon it, now being turned out by the government printing office.

The state department does not indorse the cure, but merely presents information upon it in accordance with a resolution the senate adopted. The officials and members of congress have received thousands of appeals for copies which soon will be ready for distribution.

Carrying 2 Babies And Wooden Leg He Fights Wild Cat

Parcel Post Man Whipped the Cat With His Wooden Leg Mail and Saved Baby Mail.

Barnwell, S. C., February 6.—The story of an exciting trip with the mail is told by Edgar F. Phillips, mail carrier on Ulmer route, No. 6. Phillips, in an interview here today, says that last Saturday among his parcel post packages were two babies and a wooden leg, and that before the completion of his trip he was attacked by a wildcat, finding it necessary to employ the use of the wooden leg to protect his live mail. The babies gave him no trouble, he says, being well supplied with nourishment before being consigned to the mails. Postage on one infant was 16 cents, while the other required 17 cents.

High Priest Guy Denuded of Cue To Give Him Class

San Francisco, February 6.—When Chin Guy, high priest in a Chinese josshouse here, went into the street today to make obeisance to the sun, his queue was snipped off by a Mongol youth in a checked suit and tan shoes.

"Some class to you now, old kid," said the youth. "You may keep the queue."

Chin tucked the queue under his richly embroidered robe and ran to the police station.

His complaint was one of a number taken to the police since old and new China clashed yesterday over the observance of New Year's day. The republican Chinese have accepted the Gregorian calendar and celebrated New Year's January 1. They objected when their more conservative countrymen observed February 5, as usual, and began a three-day celebration.

TURKS ROUTED ALL ALONG LINE BY BULGARIANS

Heavy Fighting for Two Days Near Constantinople.

5,000 DEAD TURKS ON FIELD

Allies Carrying Out Well Laid Plans to Capture Constantinople---Greek Fleet to Act.

London, February 7.—A Constantinople dispatch to The Daily News says that heavy fighting has been going on for two days in Gallipoli, and that the Bulgarians have won all along the line. The Turks, on their own admission, have lost 5,000 men.

The fighting began Tuesday. The Bulgarians advanced from Kadikeui toward Kavak, which the Turks occupied. The fight lasted until evening, when the Turks retired to Bulair. Another Bulgar force on the Marmora coast occupied Myriophylo.

It is reported that the Bulgars before leaving Rodosto burned all the military buildings.

The grand vizier, Mahmoud Schefket Pasha, in his recent visit to the front, is understood to have met General Savoff, but nothing came of the interview.

The fact that the Bulgarians appear to be moving their positions westward along the Tchatalja lines seems to show that they realize there is a possibility of an attempt to outflank them, but so far there is no confirmation of the rumors that the Turks are moving troops by sea to the neighborhood of Rodosto and Midia.

The reports indicate that the Turks have met a reverse in the Gallipoli peninsula, but no word has been received as to whether the main forces have yet been engaged, and it is assumed that the Turkish lines at Bulair and across the neck of the peninsula are well defended by modern works, which ought to offer effective resistance.

Fighting at this point should bring the rival fleets into the operations, but no naval movement has been reported.

CAPTURE OF CONSTANTINOPLE SOUGHT BY BALKAN ALLIES

Sofia, Bulgaria, February 6.—The main object of the Bulgarian armies, apart from the reduction of the fortress of Adrianople, was disclosed in dispatches given out by the war office today. The plan is to reach the Dardanelles straits and clear them for the passage of the Greek fleet into the Sea of Marmora. Then the Greeks will attack Constantinople directly from the se

The Turkish army occupying the peninsula of Gallipoli and defending the Dardanelles suffered defeat at the hands of the Bulgarian troops south of the River Kavak yesterday, according to a statement by the Bulgarian war office today.

The Ottoman troops are said to be retreating in disorder toward the town of Bulair, a small place northeast of Galipoli. They are pursued hotly by the Bulgarians

The statement concludes that the whole coast of the Sea of Marmora, as far as Bulair, is now in the hands of the allies.

FOREIGNERS NOT ALLOWED TO FLEE FROM ADRIANOPLE

Sofia, February 6.—Ministers of the powers in Sofia today communicated to Premier Guechoff the request of the consuls at Adrianople for permission for foreigners to leave the town or for the establishment of a neutral zone for their protection.

Premier Guechoff declined to accede to the request. He said there was no precedent for foreigners leaving a besieged place under similar circumstances, and there were weighty reasons why Bulgarian headquarters could not grant such permission. Nor could a neutral zone be established, as no guarantee could be given that shells would not accidentally fall within the zone, and consequently great difficulties would be created for the troops in the operations.

MOTHER AND HER SON IN THE FRESHMAN CLASS

Chicago, February 6.—An unusual companionship between mother and son was ended today when S. M. Collins, a freshman at the University of Illinois, died at his home here. The mother was a student in the same classes with her boy. They were registered in the school of agriculture.

When young Collins was preparing to go to the university last fall his mother said:

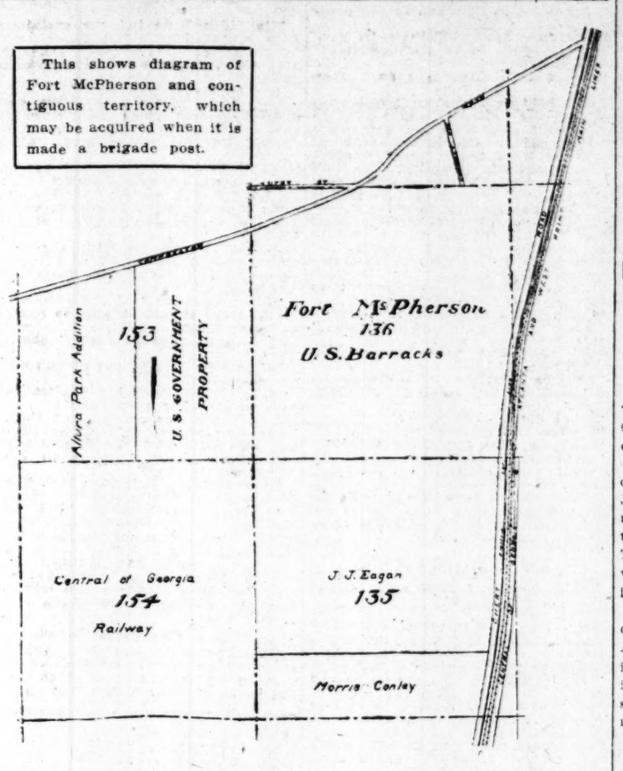
"I'll go with you."

At Champaign they lived at the same house; had adjoining seats in the class rooms, studied together and attended university functions and theaters together.

The companionship attracted wide attention at the university, where the two became known to the students as "the pals" and the boy as "the model son."

Mrs. Collins will not return to her studies.

HOW FORT WILL BE ENLARGED



Within the limits of the above plot of land, situated 3½ miles southwest of Atlanta, on the East Point road, the United States government is planning to spend $1,800,000 in establishing a brigade post for the quartering of 3,000 soldiers.

Dispatches from Washington state that the extension of Fort McPherson will probably mean the acquirement of the Eagan tract, consisting of 137½ acres, and the state rifle range, 11⅛ acres, and the erection of buildings on this land to accommodate the full brigade which will be centered at this point.

The rifle range, which is situated just to the left of the fort on the above map, is already owned by the government, although it has nominally been turned over to the state of Georgia as a practice range for the Fifth regiment.

Either by providing some other plot of land, or by paying the state military authorities for the land, the government can turn over the title to the army and use it for the extension of the post. It is possible that the Altura park addition, just beyond the range, may also be acquired.

The Eagan tract, which is the property of John J. Eagan, of Atlanta, fronting, as it does, on the East Point road, on the side of Fort McPherson farthest from Atlanta, offers splendid ground for the location of new barracks, officers' homes, hospitals, etc., to form the greater post. While Mr. Eagan has made no offer of his land, and, in fact, has said he doesn't want to sell, he says, however, that he will not stand in the way if the government decides it needs to buy the tract. It is possible, also, that the Central railroad property may be bought by the government if more space is needed. The above map was furnished The Constitution through the courtesy of J. T. Kimbrough.

PASSENGER OFFICIAL HURT UNDER TRAIN

C. A. Carson, Jr., Traveling Passenger Agent of Southern, Slips Boarding Freight.

Attempting to board a moving freight train yesterday afternoon near McDonough, Ga., C. A. Carson, Jr., traveling passenger agent of the Southern railway, missed his footing on the iron rail and barely escaped death beneath the grinding wheels of the heavy cars. He was picked up bleeding and badly mangled, and was brought to Atlanta on a special train that speeded at times nearly 60 miles an hour, in the hope of saving his life. Patterson's ambulance was waiting for the train at the Capitol avenue crossing, and rushed him to the Atlanta hospital.

Mr. Carson, whose headquarters are at Macon, had been in McDonough on an inspection trip. He is accustomed to boarding a freight or a passenger train at will, whether stationary or moving, and had never before met with an accident. Thursday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock, when Southern freight train No. 52, for Macon, passed him he decided to board it. He swung on nimbly and caught hold with his hand, but his foot slipped from the rail. Having a strong grip with his hand he held on, and attempted to draw his feet up for a foothold, but his legs were dragged along the crosstles, and finally his hold was shaken.

Although the train was going slowly, he was caught by the wheels and dragged for some distance, his left leg being broken, his thigh crushed, and a big hole being made in his back before the train was stopped. Placing him in a freight car and attaching the engine to it, the crew speeded toward Atlanta with the improvised special train, making the 29 miles in about 40 minutes. Telegrams were sent in advance. John Lamar Meek, of Atlanta, assistant general passenger agent of the road, met the train at Henderson's crossing and accompanied the injured man to the hospital.

Mr. Carson is unmarried, about 36 years old, and has been with the Southern about ten years. His father, C. A. Carson, and his sister, Miss Elise Carson, immediately started for Atlanta from their home in Greenville, S. C., when telegraphed the news of the accident.

THREE ARRESTED FOR FAKE RAIDS

Lawyer, Bailiff and Negro Held. Alleged That They Masqueraded As Plain Clothes Men.

A startling climax to the investigation of Police Chief Beavers into a series of recent raids on private houses made by men purporting to be policemen came yesterday afternoon, when Attorney Herbert J. Boswell, a police court lawyer; Charlie Isom, a justice court bailiff, and Jack Reed, a negro "lookout" in the lawyer's employ, were arrested on criminal warrants from Justice Jordan's court.

The trio were carried to the Tower and placed under $1,000 bonds. The warrants charge them with a misdemeanor, blanketing charges of forgery and embracery, the latter being the offense of agitating litigation for financial gain, according to Judge Jordan. Each man, except Reed, gave bond. Boswell, at the time of arrest, had more than $3,000 on his person.

Since early Thursday morning Chief Beavers had a corps of detectives and policemen investigating raids that have been made recently in Atlanta. Members of his plain clothes squad had been accused of the raids, and it was with the view of ascertaining if this were true, or if others not connected with the police department were making bogus arrests, that he acted.

Negroes Complain of Raids.

Complaints had poured into police headquarters for the past few days from negroes protesting against arrests that had been made, presumably by plain clothes officers. Detectives and policemen, under charge of Captain W. F. Terry, were sent to all parts of the city to investigate the complaints.

Captain Terry learned that at the home of Isaac Balagur, 151 Pulliam street, two men had aroused the occupants at 2 o'clock Saturday morning and had demanded entrance to the place. They were in search of negroes, they said—two blacks for whom they had warrants. Mrs. Balagur denied them entrance to the main part of the house.

They entered the basement of the house, arrested a negro man and woman residing there. According to the testimony of the two negroes, they were carried to Judge Jordan's courtroom, on Edgewood avenue, and held there until they put up $6 as bond for appearance at trial.

Carried to Boswell's Home.

This was the first clue upon which to work. A number of the negro victims of the "raids' told the police that they were roused from their homes at an early hour of the morning by the "raiders," who, instead of carrying them to jail, took them to Attorney Boswell's home.

Boswell, the victims say, offered to free them upon bond, which he would sign at a stipulated fee. When the bond was made and the fee turned over, Boswell, according to the negroes, would say that it would be the end of the case until they were notified.

Probably eleven or more of just such cases were reported to the police. Boswell was arrested when he appeared in Justice Jordan's court to request the dismissal of warrants

SIX WORKING DAYS LEFT CONTESTANTS IN M. & M. CONTEST FOR VALUABLE PRIZES

It is exactly one week from today until The Constitution's M. & M. contest closes, which gives entrants in the popular competition but six more working days in which to strive for a prize. The contest closes promptly at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, February 14.

At the end of this time some organization is going to be better off by $1,000, $500 or $250; some individual will be richer by an automobile, a diamond ring or a watch; some little boy or girl is going to be happier by the ownership of a pretty Shetland pony with a cart or bridle and saddle, and the members of one of Georgia's enthusiastic amateur baseball teams are going to be the broader by their experience and knowledge of the national pastime! Are your chances good to profit by these advantages? If not, are you doing your best to make them so? If so, what are you doing to keep them so? The time is short and your place in the race depends absolutely upon your own energy and enthusiasm!

Pointer for Baseball Clubs.

Here is a pointer for the baseball clubs. The opening games of the big league season in Washington, to which The Constitution is offering the Georgia teams the trip, will be played with the New York Americans and none other than the peerless Frank Chance

COUNCIL MAY ASK FOR SHOW-DOWN

Mayor's Hint at "Corruption" Likely to Cause Probe.

Resolution Being Drafted Demanding Substance for Mayor's "Defamation of Council."

The mayor's hint at a possible "slush" or "corruption" fund of $128,000 in the crematory contract, may end in a councilmanic probe.

Members of council are discussing today a resolution demanding Mayor James G. Woodward, leading opponent of the $276,800 crematory project to "make good" his hint at corruption. They say that the mayor should reveal the "corruption," if there is any in the deal.

Mayor Woodward says that the excess between the Milwaukee and the Atlanta plants, amounting to $128,000, is so great that he could not help asking council the plain question. He says he is not afraid of a councilmanic investigation.

Resolution Being Drafted.

That a resolution is in the process of making, calling on Mayor Woodward to "make good" his broad intimation, is positive. It was discussed Thursday. Advocates of the new crematory project say that the mayor's indiscreet utterances have defamed council.

Alderman John S. Candler, leader of the fight for the crematory, who was again attacked by Mayor Woodward Thursday morning, will, it is said, take the floor in council Monday afternoon in advocacy of the $75,000 crematory appropriation being passed with the finance sheet.

Judge Candler's speech will reopen the fight, and the probe resolution is expected to come as a sequel.

"I have not heard of such a resolution being offered," Judge Candler said last night. "I don't know whether it is going to be introduced or not. I have absolutely no connection with it."

Recently City Electrician R. C. Turner, in a written communication to Mayor Courtland Winn, hinted at evil in connection with the $125,000 lighting contract with the Georgia Railway and Power company. He made use of the words, "Have been seen," referring to committee members, in criticising the attitude of council.

Turner Was "Investigated."

Turner was summoned before council to "make good" his innuendo charge. He failed, in the opinion of council, and he was severely rebuked.

City Attorney Mayson says that council has the authority to investigate any charge that is made by city officials or a citizen, and that it is within the power of council to summon witnesses to bring out any facts or statements in connection with any charge uttered or published.

The city attorney did not know, and was not informed when asked for his opinion, of the plan to hale Mayor Woodward before council.

The mayor issued a signed statement Thursday in which he declared that moral obligations amounting to $343,000 were brought over to his administration in 1903 and 1904. The mayor said that Alderman Candler's statement that Piedmont park and other moral obligations were incurred during his administration was untrue.

City's Credit Is Being Hurt.

Alderman Candler says that Mayor Woodward's conduct in the crematory matter is hurting the city's credit. He says that he has been informed that there is a feeling of uneasiness in New York over the prospect of Atlanta repudiating a moral obligation.

"I also understand, and this I presume is a fact and which no one will dispute or gainsay, that Atlanta bonds have dropped to a price considerably below what the city actually got for them when they were sold," Alderman Candler said.

Alderman Candler said that a Baltimore banker told him a few days ago that Atlanta bonds could be bought in that city, which is one of the best bond markets in the country, for less than he had ever seen them sold in the past ten years.

"He asked me what was the matter," Alderman Candler continued. "All this I attribute to the prospect that the city will repudiate the crematory contract."

Mayor Woodward replied that he was sick of the cry of "moral obligation." He says council should have seen far enough ahead to know that the saddling of a quarter-million-dollar debt on the city would prove disastrous.

Material Here for Crematory.

Samuel N. Evins, local counsel for the New York Destructor company, said Thursday afternoon, that he had been notified that thirty-six carloads of material for the new crematory were in the railroad yards, and that great haste would be made to have the crematory ready to take care of the summer garbage.

"I told those folks in New York that Atlanta's moral obligation was as good as gold," Attorney Evins said. "I have never wavered from my position, although I am being punished and 'cussed out.' I know just as well as I am standing here that Atlanta will pay for that crematory, and I have advised the company to go ahead and carry out its end of the contract."

The foundations for the new crematory are well under way, and according to Sales Manager Dowd actual structural work will be started in a few days. He says he is satisfied that Atlanta will pay for the plant after it has been in operation a short time.

Two Crematories Suggested.

Councilman J. T. Kimbrough, the tenth ward member who is standing behind Mayor Woodward in his crematory fight, said Thursday that he has always favored two crematories located in different parts of the city. He takes the view that the long haul to one plant will cost entirely too much.

"I would favor a plant of 100 tons at the present location, and a similar plant in some other section of the city near the stockade," he said. "I would be willing to let this same company build both plants if some sort of an agreement can be reached."

Councilman Kimbrough says he will support any proposition that is fair to the city, regardless of political affiliation.

"GINGER-BREAD" CUT THE THROAT OF MRS. BEACH

Wife of New York Millionaire Swears Negro Slashed Her.

ROBBERY NOT THE MOTIVE

Mrs. Beach Intimates Darker Crime. Beach on Stand in Own Defense. Verdict Likely Today.

Aiken, S. C., February 6.—Frederick O. Beach, the New York society man, today took the stand and swore that he did not commit an assault upon his wife.

Mrs. Beach took the stand and swore that her husband did not assault her.

Tomorrow the jury of Aiken county farmers before which Beach is being tried for the offense is expected to decide whether or not he did.

All the evidence in the case was in when court adjourned this evening. Three hours tomorrow have been allowed for summing up arguments, after which Judge Spain will deliver his charge, the last act preliminary to giving the case to the jury.

"Man Behind Bookcase"

After the defense had rested late today, the state offered several witnesses in rebuttal to contradict portions of the testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Beach, and during this proceeding the identity of the mysterious "man behind the bookcase" was revealed. He turned out to be Hadden Johnson, a young newspaper man, of Aiken, who is alleged to have overheard a conversation between Beach and his wife in the mayor's office about the assault. Mr. Johnson was not permitted to give an explanatory answer to the prosecutor's question as to whether Beach had not asked his wife to lay the offense upon the brother of a negro servant, and he declined to make any answer whatever.

Both Beach and his wife told their stories to the jury in a simple way. The prosecutor cross-questioned each of them at great length and called their attention constantly to statements they are alleged to have made previously, differing in some detail to their testimony today. They bravely stood by their guns at all times, and would not admit that any part of their narrative today was incorrect.

Attacked by Ginger Cake Negro.

Mrs Beach said she was assaulted by a "ginger-bread colored" negro, who approached her on pretense of having a message for a negro servant. She declared that the negro laid violent hands upon her, slashed her throat and hit her on the side of the head with the stick; that she was too much frightened to scream at the first attack; and that when she did scream her husband came promptly to her assistance as the assailant fled.

At no time, Mrs. Beach said, had she entertained any idea that the negro's motive was robbery.

Beach did not remember any conversation with his wife in the mayor's office, neither did Mrs. Beach. Both indignantly denied the suggestion that there was any suggestion of fastening the crime on any known person.

Though her face was fiery red and her voice trembling with emotion, Mrs. Beach delivered her narrative calmly, deliberately and with an amazing memory for details of all that happened except during those few moments when she was struggling with her assailant.

C. F. von HERRMANN, Section Director.

she said. "I could not utter a sound. Then suddenly I found my voice and I yelled and screamed hysterically."

Mrs. Beach Almost Defiant.

During her cross-examination, Mrs. Beach leaned forward in her chair, shoulders slightly stooped, and gazed squarely at the prosecutor. Her manner was almost defiant at times when he asked her a question that she regarded as impertinent.

"I'm sure I don't know," was her favorite answer at such times and she would repeat the phrase, over and over, whenever he would press for an answer.

No one within the radius of Mrs. Beach's smile could fail to feel the effect of her personality and charm. She spoke in a low, sweet voice, and appeared to be very much out of place in a courtroom.

Beach told his story slowly but well. He impressed one as belonging to the familiar English type. Slow to grasp the import of some of the questions put to him, he would hesitate until the matter had had time to revolve fully in his mind. When the prosecutor would remind him that certain points in his testimony were at variance with the stories he had told at the time of the assault, he would insist that the way he told it today was the way it happened and that he never had related it differently.

Character Witnesses for Beach.

A large part of the afternoon session today was taken up by the defense with the introduction of character witnesses. Men of high and low degree, men who had known Beach in New York and in Aiken for years—he has spent seventeen winters here—testified as to his reputation for being quiet and orderly.

Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., of New York who belongs to Beach's set, was challenged by the prosecutor when he said Beach had a reputation for being orderly.

"I don't suppose you have ever discussed Mr. Beach in this way, have you?" asked Mr. Gunter.

"Oh! yes," responded Mr. Hitchock, with a smile, "we often discuss our friends' reputation."

Another of these witnesses, D. W. Gaston, who is president of the First National bank here, and also runs the livery stable, received this lively greeting from the prosecutor:

'Hello, there, Dave, when did you commence to run with the four hundred?"

"Oh! I've got so I can't eat my lunch until 2 o'clock," replied the witness with a hearty laugh.

There was every indication tonight that the trial would come to an end tomorrow. There are seven murder cases on the docket set for trial at this term, nearly half of which already has been consumed by the Beach case.

Beach Takes the Stand

Beach took the stand in his own defense when his trial resumed at 9:45 o'clock this morning. He said he was 57 years old, that he was a property owner at Aiken and had been spending the winters here for seventeen years.

"When did you marry Mrs. Beach?" asked Congressman Byrnes of his counsel.

"November 29, 1899."

"Have you any children?"

"Yes, two."

"Where were you living in February, 1912?"

"I had rented my house on Hood's Lane to Mrs. Lyons and my wife and I were living in the cottage adjoining."

"Did you have any guests on February 26?"

"Yes, Miss Hollins. She arrived the day before."

"Did you have any other guests for supper that night?"

"No."

"What did you do after supper?"

"The three of us, we went into the sitting room fronting on Hood's Lane. Miss Hollins retired about 10 minutes after 9. We continued reading. Suddenly we heard a scream.

My wife exclaimed, 'My, what's that?' I told her I thought it was some negroes quarrelling. Then we heard another from the direction of the Lyons place. Two or three minutes later my wife said she thought she would go to bed, but that she would put the dogs out first. She went out with the dogs, closing the sitting room door behind her.

He Heard Wife Scream.

"A minue later I heard her scream. I ran out the front door and saw my wife leaning up against the post at the corner of the porch. I started for her and had gotten about a quarter of the way, on the path, when a negro darted by me across the bushes and out the front gate. I could have intercepted him but instead I rushed to the assistance of my wife. My thought when I heard her scream was that she had found dead or dying the woman we had heard screaming a few minutes before.

"When I reached my wife she exclaimed: 'He has done something dreadful to me.' I carried her on the porch, opened the screen door and laid her down inside. Then I saw the cut in her throat and realized for the first time what had happened. I rushed upstairs, obtained my gun, and went out into Hood's Lane in search of the assailant. I returned in a short time and found the door had slammed to. I knocked vigorously and Miss Hollins came to the door and asked who was there before opening it. I replied: 'It's me, Beach. Let me in.'"

Beach said that he left the house soon again to telephone to Dr. Hall, his physician. He met the two Wymans, doctors who lived across the street, coming in. He telephoned Dr. Hall from the Aiken club and then returned to his wife's side. When Dr. Hall arrived and began sewing up the wound in her throat, he said he held her hand because "it was very painful and she held on to me." He said that he did not remain in her room during the night, because Miss Hollins was there with her, but he declared that she sent for him several times during the night.

The witness then began a long narrative bearing on his efforts to bring his wife's assailant to justice. He said he asked that night what was being done and was told by his friend, Ed Smith, "not to worry, as he would be caught before morning." He said that he telegraphed for a detective next day.

Gave His Knife to Baughan.

A day or two later he employed Colonel Henderson to represent him in the investigation and the attorney told him then that some people suspected him of cutting his wife. The detective he employed worked for two weeks on the case without success. Then Detective Baughan, employed by the city, took it up. He told of giving his knife to Baughan in the presence of Mayor Gyles.

"How many blades did the knife have when you gave it to the detective?" asked his counsel.

"It had two, there was no broken blades."

Beach said he had several conferences with the authorities in regard to the assault and when he got ready to leave Aiken the latter part of March he went to the mayor's office and declared his intention. He told the mayor, he said, that he would stay if needed, but the mayor told him it was all right for him to go.

"Be a good boy and have a good time," he declared the mayor said to him, slapping him on the back.

Prosecutor Gunter then began cross-examination of Beach.

"Did you have an engagement to play golf that afternoon?"

"I did, but I remained, it rained."

"What did you do that afternoon?"

"I took a nap."

"Was any one there when you awoke?"

"Mr. Joe Harriman was sitting on the front porch talking to Mrs. Beach."

"What did you do later?"

"I went to the club."

"Did you take something there?"

"I suppose I did. I returned home for supper and remained till the thing was all over."

"When your wife went out with the dogs you had the same facilities for hearing her scream as you did those other screams, didn't you?"

"Yes."

Didn't Hear Wife Talking

"Didn't you hear your wife talking before she screamed?"

"I did not."

"How long was it between the last scream at the Lyons' and your wife's scream?"

"Four or five minutes."

"Why didn't you stop the negro you saw running away from your wife?"

"I didn't dream at that moment that the man running away had attacked my wife."

"How long were you gone from the house searching for the negro after you carried your wife in?"

"Not more than 30 seconds."

"It was then that you came back and knocked on the door, demanding, 'It's Mr Beach, let me in?'"

"Yes."

"Are you sure there were two blades in your knife when it left your possession?"

"I am certain there was no broken blade."

"Didn't you try to induce your wife in the mayor's office, when you thought you were alone, to lay the assault on Pearl Hampton's brother?"

"That is absolutely false," cried the witness, greatly excited.

"Didn't your wife say that she would not lay the crime on an innocent man?"

"Absolutely not."

Mrs. Beach Tells Her Story.

There was a stir in the crowded room when Mrs. Beach took the stand. She began her testimony in a trembling voice. She explained she had been married twice and had two boys by each marriage. "The oldest stands 6 foot 7 in his stockings," she said, smilingly, "he is surveying in Vancouver."

Mrs. Beach then launched into her story.

"When I left the sitting room to take my two dogs out I closed the door leading into the hall, but decided to leave the front door open to let some air in. I went out on the porch and noticed a negro man standing on the corner under the light. Then he came in the gate and stopped, inquiring: 'Does Mrs. Beach live here? I have a message for Katie Smith and some one else. I can't remember,' he put his hand to his head and seemed to be trying to remember. In the meantime I started walking away from him down the walk. It never occurred to me to fear him, as I never have been afraid of any one, white or black.

"Suddenly the man jumped his hands on my shoulders. Then I was so terrified I don't believe I ever screamed. I was thrown to my knees twice, and my throat cut. I did not realize it until I put my hand to my neck and felt the warm blood. I remember struggling, striking the man in the face and then began screaming hysterically. A door slammed and the man ran out of the gate, after hitting me on the side of the head with a stick as Mr. Beach ran to my assistance. I was leaning against the post at the end of the porch when he reached me. I neglected to say that when the man came into the yard he was twirling a heavy stick."

Husband Carried Her Inside.

Mrs. Beach said that her husband carried her inside and turned her over to Miss Hollins and the servants, who helped her to a lounge. He then went upstairs for his gun and immediately ran out of the house.

"Mr. Beach was gone but a moment. While he was out, I remember saying to Marion, 'Shut that door and keep that black man out.'"

"Mrs. Beach," said Beach's lawyer, "your husband is charged in the indictment with assaulting you. Did he do it?"

"He did not do it," she exclaimed, with emphasis.

"Are you positive of that?" asked the prosecutor, taking up the cross-examination.

"I am absolutely positive."

Mrs. Beach said her assailant wore a dark overcoat, much too big for him and a slouch hat. The prosecutor showed her the picket found in the yard.

"Is that the stick he was twirling when he came into the yard?"

"I am sure I don't know."

"Is that the stick he struck with?"

"I am sure I don't know," she replied.

"What did he do with the stick when he put both hands on your shoulders and forced you down?"

"I don't know."

"The prosecutor told the witness he thought she should be able to remember something.

"I was terrified to death," she replied.

"Then why did you not scream when he touched you?"

"I think my vocal cords must have been temporarily paralyzed."

Mrs. Beach was asked about the alleged conversation in the mayor's office. She indignantly denied that Beach had asked her to "Lay it on Pearl Hampton's brother."

On re direct examination Mrs. Beach declared that she had never claimed that the earrings she lost that night had any great intrinsic value.

She said she treasured them because they were given to her by her mother. Beach previously had testified that the rural policeman "must be mistaken" if he thought he had told him that the earrings were worth $4,000 or $5,000.

Miss Hollins on the Stand.

Miss Marion Hollins then took the stand. She testified that she had gone upstairs to bed and had been there but a short time when she heard screams outside her window from the direction of the Lyons' place, and a voice she did not recognize, telling somebody to "keep still;" a few minutes later she heard other screams just below her window and cries for help She said she rushed down stairs in her night clothes and found Beach carrying his wife into the house.

Gall Stones Removed Without an Operation

After suffering for one year with gall stones, I was told by a friend to try Swamp-Root. I began with the fifty-cent size and after using four bottles found that I was much better. Then began using the larger size bottles and after taking three bottles I was cured. That has been seven years ago this summer and I have never been sick since that time from this disease.

I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to any one for kidney and bladder troubles hoping it may do as much good for many people as it did for me.

Yours truly,
MISS EMMA HOLDEFER,

$30,000 Worth of Lots Sold Yesterday

We thought the people of Atlanta would appreciate high-class property at popular prices and popular terms. Our wishes have been entirely gratified. No office could have been busier than ours yesterday. We have sold lots right and left—

Beautiful Lots—Lots With Wide Frontage—Lots With Plenty of Depth—Lots Facing Parks—

To the best people in the City of Atlanta. Most of these people are home builders and are beginning now to prepare for their homes. No section in Atlanta will keep pace with this new subdivision, Ansley Park, will make during this year. More than 30 of the 96 lots are now sold. We have 66 of them left. We believe there are 66 people in the City of Atlanta who are looking for just the lots we have to sell. We believe these lots will be sold during the next 30 days. We believe it is your duty, if you are looking for a handsome lot on the North Side, to look at these before buying elsewhere. We believe if you see these you will not buy elsewhere. Our confidence in these lots has been well proven in the last three days.

ANSLEY PARK HISTORY—Lot No. 9, in Block No. 10, originally sold to Mr. C. B. Howard for $36 per front foot, being 104 feet wide. It has since been sold to Mr. Alex. C. King at $125 per front foot, which aggregates $13,000. This is a profit of $9,400. Three times the amount of the original investment. This is Ansley Park History.

SHOTS FROM REAR SLEW HIGHTOWER

So Say Witnesses at Trial of Lynn and Wife.

Witness Sticks to Story That He Saw Lynn Enter House Just Before the Killing.

Dublin, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) The trial of A. L. Lynn and his wife for the murder of F. M. Hightower, which began in earnest here this morning, bids fair to extend into next week and break previous records for lengthy trials in this county.

The first witness sworn this morning—the first one during the trial—was Dr. J. L. Weddington, who testified for the state. He went over much the same ground as he did in the preliminary trial, stating that he found five bullet holes in the back of Mr. Hightower's head and two inhis stomach, the wounds in the head indicating that they had been made by a pistol fired behind Hightower.

Sheriff J. J. Flanders testified that he had picked up several bullets from the floor in front of where Hightower sat when shot, and that they must have been fired from behind in order to have been lying where they were. One bullet, he said, had been found in a door shutter in the rear, where Mrs. Lynn claimed to have been standing when as she alleges, she shot Hightower. He testified that he had noticed that the bed behind Hightower was depressed in the center as if someone had rested a hand upon it for a while for support.

Invited to Lynn Home.

Photographs showing the position of the principals in the tragedy, according to the statement of Mrs. Lynn, were introduced by the state. They had been taken during the re-enactment of the affair some time after it happened. A letter was also introduced and was proven to have been written by Mr. Lynn and signed by Mrs. Lynn inviting him to come to their home on Tuesday, the day of the killing, as Lynn and the children were going to Wilkinson county for three days and she would "be so lonely." It also stated that there was plenty of lightwood out and he could get a big load every day; also that she would give him a good dinner.

The afternoon session of the court was delayed an hour by the illness of Juror Tyre, who was taken sick just before the noon recess. After the court opened again, the state proceeded with its efforts to show a conspiracy by the defendants to get Hightower out to their place and to show that Mrs. Lynn did not do all the shooting, but Lynn a portion of it at least.

Saw Lynn Enter House.

One of the main witnesses for the state, a half-witted negro, swore that he saw Lynn go into the house just a few minutes before the shooting and come out just after it and run toward the cotton patch behind the house. The defense was able to confuse him considerably in the cross-examination, but he stuck to this portion of the story to the last.

Other witnesses told of hearing Lynn invite Hightower to come after lightwood more than once on the Saturday and also on the Sunday before the tragedy.

More than 100 veniremen were sworn in before a jury was secured.

The state and defense have sworn fifty-seven witnesses to be used during the trial, which promises to be a long one, and it is claimed the state has startling evidence to be used.

A distagraph has been in the cell of the accused, and many admissions are said to be recorded.

Mr. Lynn and wife will use as their defense that Mrs. Lynn shot and killed Mr. Hightower after he had attempted to assault her, and that she was alone in her house at the time, Mr. Lynn being in a field several hundred yards away.

The state contends that Mr. Lynn was seen coming out of the house soon after the shooting, and that Mr. Hightower had received letters from the Lynns asking him to come to their home on the date he was killed.

Dynamite in a Vacant House Sends Many to High Grass

Mounted Officers Brannen and Askew guarding the explosive.

Not a cyclone was in sight—there were no visible signs of an earthquake, and the clear, calm skies gave assurance that there would be no flood for several hours, at least. But these very satisfactory meteorological conditions did not prevent an entire neighborhood from going to the storm pit early yesterday afternoon.

The neighborhood was near Spellman orphanage, at Chapel and Leonard streets. The cause was a fifty-pound box of dynamite discovered in a deserted house, and left there until arrival of the city construction department's wagons.

Policemen Brannen and Askew were the heroes of the occasion. Had it not been for them and the prying curiosity with which they are obsessed, the vicinity of Spellman orphanage right now would probably be a tremendous hole in the ground entirely surrounded by undertakers, ambulances and grief-stricken relatives.

Brannen and Askew are on the mounted squad, you know, and every day they ride their jet-black steeds past a vacant frame house at 41 Leonard street, just across the street from the orphanage. The house has been vacant for several months. When the officers drove up to it yesterday about noon they became possessed of the desire to go in and investigate.

Their visit was productive, if you can call a fifty-pound box of dynamite productive.

Askew took out his revolver and started to shoot off a nail, so as to knock off the lid of the box without unnecessary exertion. The click of his revolver hammer was accompanied by the rapidly receding footsteps of Brannen, and Askew, suspicious of his brother officer's rapid flight, investigated the box more closely before he shot at the nail, and discovered it to be dynamite.

Then he asked forgiveness, standing up instead of upon his knees, and called for Brannen to come back. Brannen returned, reluctantly, if not profanely, and together the two called Chief Beavers. The chief ordered both men to remain on duty at the house until a wagon from the city construction department came and removed the explosive.

Mystery veils the presence of the dynamite in the deserted house. Everything, from bomb laboratories to excavation gangs, have been suggested, but the police are unable to fathom the case.

MANY BEN HILL PUPILS SUFFER FROM HOOKWORM

Fitzgerald, February 6.—(Special.)—The county commissioners have appropriated $150 to aid the state board of health to carry on a campaign to eradicate the hookworm disease from the county. Dr. Henry who has charge of the work has already examined a large number of the rural schools and in some instances has found as high as 50 per cent of the children infected. Every child in the county will be examined if desired, and free treatment given by Dr. Henry.

There are 1,000 white and 700 colored pupils in the rural schools and 1,000 white and 500 colored pupils in the Fitzgerald schools making a total of 3,701 pupils to examine in the county schools, beside those not attending school. Dr. Henry expects to take at least six weeks to do the work.

MORTUARY

J. T. Hudson, Louisville.

Louisville, Ga., February 6.—(Special.)—John T. Hudson, for several years a resident of Louisville and a life-long resident of Jefferson county, died at his home here at an early hour this morning, aged 63 years, Mr. Hudson had been very feeble for some years, having been stricken with paralysis. He was stricken again about midnight and lived only a short while. He is survived by his wife, four sons, Robert J. and O. H. Hudson, of Atlanta, Ga.; C. H. Hudson, Savannah; W. E. Hudson, of this place, and two daughters, Mrs. S. J. Whigham and Miss Eunice Hudson, of this place.

Patrick J. Heyfron.

The funeral of Patrick J. Heyfran, aged 69, who died yesterday at his home, 247 Oak street, West End, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at St. Anthony's church. Rev. Father Jackson will officiate, and the interment will be at West View. Mr. Heyfron is survived by his wife and five children—Mrs. Walter Cone, Miss Josephine Heyfron and Edward, Charles and John Heyfron, the latter of whom lives in New York city.

Mrs. M. F. Cheeves, Macon.

Macon, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) Mrs. Martha F. Cheeves, aged 74 years, died last night at the home of her niece, Mrs. Ed. Cook, 306 Napier avenue. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Van Valentino; one niece, Mrs. Ed. Cook, and two nephews, John M. and Harry DeBorde, all of whom reside in Macon. Mrs. Cheeves spent many years in charitable work among the poor.

W. F. Gaines, Rome.

Rome, Ga., February 6.—(Special.)—W. F. Gaines, aged 62 years, for several years deputy sheriff of Floyd county, died tonight at his home a Cave Spring after an illness of several months. Mr. Gaines resigned from the sheriff's office three months ago on account of ill-health. The funeral will take place at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the residence, and interment will follow in the Cave Spring cemetery. A wife survives him.

DONKEY TO MARCH IN WILSON PARADE

The Animal Will Head the Young Men's Democratic Club of Washington.

Washington, February 6.—Preparations for the inaugural ceremonies are moving swiftly to completion. The inaugural committee today appropriated $21,000 for the reviewing stand at Lafayette square and the president's stand in front of the white house. These two stands form the nucleus of the court of honor, the keynote of the entire decorative scheme for the inaugural.

A feature of the parade that has not been in evidence since the inauguration of Grover Cleveland will be a donkey. The animal will march at the head of the Young Men's Democratic club, of Washington.

To protect visitors to Washington it has been planned to request many of the large cities to assign a detail of picked detectives to aid the local authorities.

The purely naval contingent in the parade will comprise about 3,000 uniformed men, while an equal number of uniformed men will be in the army and militia contingents. Among the civilians Chicago is to be represented by Mayor Carter Harrison and about 500 stalwart democrats, while the state of Illinois will be represented by Governor Dunne and his staff, the latter in uniform.

The National American Woman's Suffrage association practically has plans for its pageant on March 3 completed. All sections of the country will be represented by marchers or cavalry squadrons.

The suffragists' reviewing stand, on the south front of the treasury, will be ready within a few days. Applications for seats on all the stands for the pageant promise to exceed the supply. In one of the larger stands on Pennsylvania avenue a section of 1,000 seats has been reserved for school children. They will be sold at a nominal price.

Women of Columbus, Ohio, will come to Washington in a special train, to arrive on March 1. They will appear in one section of the pageant.

Princeton Band to Escort Wilson.

Princeton, N. J., February 6.—A brass band of more than thirty pieces, composed entirely of Princeton undergraduates, will head the Nassau student delegation which will escort President-elect Woodrow Wilson to Washington on the even of his inauguration. Paul F. Meyers, president of the College Woodrow Wilson club announced the plan tonight, and called together members of the Princeton Triangle club orchestra and other students adept at playing wind instruments. The band already has begun to practice local college airs for the occasion.

Coffin Factory Planned.

Valdosta, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) Plans are under way for the establishment of a coffin factory in the city. J. P. Ulmer, and undertaker, is one of the leading spirits in the proposed enterprise, and has had expert casketmakers here for some weeks turning out some of the finest coffins and metallic caskets made. He proposes to interest local capitalists and form a stock company for the putting in of a modern factory.

AN OLD ORDER AT BAY.

Little else but tragedy is left in that once-powerful and mysterious Turkey that by turns has vexed and baffled civilization for centuries. The dispatch published recently by The London Daily Telegraph is the first uncensored picture of conditions in the Near East yet presented. And so faithfully does it shine with the logic of the situation that it is likely everywhere to be accepted as truth.

It is not difficult to picture the demoralization that is riving the Ottoman empire. We are told that, at the front, the troops are illy-clad, poorly-fed and exposed to all the rigors of an unusually harsh winter. Discipline is said to have gone to pieces. In the provinces and in the cities the status is little bettered. So poverty-stricken, so hopeless and dispirited are the people generally that there is no appetite for war and clamor universally rises for a cessation of hostilities. It is not improbable that, as this correspondent narrates, the coup that placed the government in the hands of the Young Turks was scheduled to occur after the fall of Adrianople. The blunder that precipitated it ahead of schedule seems to have deeply embarrassed those in authority. The facts that the treasury is bare and that no money can be raised until the war is ended only add to the prevailing gloom.

Last flickers of fire may, of course, be expected from the besieged troops. Enough Turks still maintain the fighting traditions of their race to make some sort of a showing before Adrianople surrenders and the Tchatalja lines are penetrated. But at the best the inevitable can only be deferred. The heart of resistance is eaten out. The indifference of the European powers gives indication that the Turks may not look another time for salvation from this source, which has so often conspired to delay the mailed hand of fate. The government is between two fires. If it continues the war it invites catastrophe and the spread of anarchy. It it surrenders the disaffected element is likely to create chaos at home. Yet the decision must be made, and at an early day.

In a word, the old order in the Near East is in its death-throes. The great errors, the blindness to the light, the stubborn self-deception of many centuries are producing their predestined harvest. Not even dignity is left the Mahommedan as he nears the end of his reign in Europe. Squalor rivals humiliation, puerile intrigue jostles fatal shortness of vision as the drama of a decaying nation draws swiftly to its close.

GREATER M'PHERSON.

The Constitution's special from Washington outlining the plans of the war department with regard to Fort McPherson indicates that within a relatively short time that post will become one of the great military centers of the country. To accommodate additional troops which will be sent to the post improvements involving an expenditure of $1,800,000 are in contemplation. Before the projected reorganization of the army is fully materialized it is likely the government's investment at the fort will considerably rank these figures.

The transformation of McPherson will, of course, benefit Atlanta and the surrounding territory in several directions. The initial expenditures for land and buildings will first make their influence felt. The increased spending capacity of the added garrison and the supplies needed on the commissary side will redound further to the profit of the city. Socially, many of the officers will make a welcome addition to Atlanta.

It was inevitable that the war department should have selected Fort McPherson as a point of concentration under the new and more scientific order. Atlanta has time and again proven its strategic value as mobilization ground, on a great scale during the civil war and more recently during the Spanish-American war. The advantages that originally commended the city have been intensified with its growth in wealth and population and the development of railroad outlets to every point of the compass.

VIRTUOUS UNDER THE LASH.

The New York stock exchange is in position personally to verify the lines of "Bobby" Burns, which run to the effect that—

"The fear o' hell's the hangman's whip to keep the wretch in order."

Scared into energy by the straightforward scarification of Governor Sulzer and the subsequent reform bills introduced in the New York legislature, the exchange gives a first-class imitation of cleaning house before it is compelled to by unofficial pressure. With a great parade of virtue, two or three measures aiming at reducing manipulation and some of the more flagrant practices have been enacted. It is also given out that further reforms will be forthcoming, as a special committee now investigating the exchange may recommend them.

All of which is very edifying, but hardly conclusive. It is open to debate if a sick man may heal himself or if, in this specific instance, the patient is genuinely anxious for a cure. Previous official criticisms of the exchange have met, first, with blunt and sometimes arrogant denial, followed by half-way remedial measures which were dropped as soon as the public attention was elsewhere concentrated.

It is not impossible that the gentlemen engineering the present personally-conducted cleansing process may have in view hope of some such easy quieting of the demand for change. Time only will develop whether or not this institution is turning to rectitude for effect or in honesty.

And we agree with Governor Sulzer that the only way to correct the admitted evils of the "street" is to go about the matter in a calm and sane manner, and not by the application of wild-eyed theories or by the beating of tom-toms. Wall street must behave itself. But, like every other aggregation of business in this country, it has its own distinct rights.

NEW BODIES FOR OLD.

A dispatch from Michigan reports that a portion of a dog's brain was grafted into the diseased brain of a human being, and that present indications point the success of the operation.

The story sounds too spectacular for truth, but the triumphs achieved by Dr. Alexis Carrol, of the Rockefeller foundation, and by other modern surgeons give it verification. Dr. Carrol, who won this year's Nobel prize, has wrought wonders in the transplantation of human organs, and their replacing with organs and tissue from the inarticulate animals. He now dreams even of the difficult feat of transferring nerves.

In the war against disease and decay science ever pushes its frontiers farther forward. It is not inconceivable that the generation now rising may witness the indefinite postponement of old age and physical substitutions of such startling nature as to silence incredulity.

A FRENZIED 15 MINUTES.

We speak, in the vernacular, of giving our dearest enemies a "bad quarter of an hour." In Vidalia, Ga., thriving and bustling but in the clutch of a reform wave, all cigarette fiends will henceforth experience each day a frenzied quarter of an hour. For the edict has gone forth that from this time forward cigarettes may be purchased in the little city for only fifteen minutes out of the twenty-four hours.

One can easily visualize the stampede as the emporiums that deal in this form of tobacco swing open their doors for the brief but fevered respite each morning. If there is anything more energetic on earth than a cigarette habitue without a cigarette or the "makin's," it is yet to be unearthed. So the fortunate few licensed to dispense the wherewithal in Vidalia may expect to undergo ordeals beside which bargain counter rushes or a sudden retreat of the Turks will seem flat, stale and unprofitable.

"One, two, three! Up and at 'em, boys!" We who live where one may pamper this class of indulgence without let or hindrance, hardly appreciate our blessings—if they be such.

The Panama Canal speaks for itself. It doesn't need a defense.

Mr. Bryan's lemon farm in Texas is not working overtime this year.

Cold weather coming, and there will be cabinets to burn.

Good news to hear that the British suffragettes are coming to America. They may learn something from their more conservative sisters.

Two Modern Valentines.

(From Judge.)

The tailor sent his bill to Smith,
Whose statment had run overtime,
And underneath his "Please remit,"
The tailor wrote this littl rhyme:

"As sure as the vine
Grows round the stump,
I'll sue you if
You don't, you chump."

Smith laid the bill upo na pile
That loomed above him, mountain high;
Then, with a rather weary smile,
He penned the tailor this reply:

"Roses are red,
Violets are blue,
I'm now bankrupt,
So go and sue."

—George B. Staff.

PORTLAND, OREGON

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Portland, Oregon, is a large, two-story town, situated on the Willamette river and the Southern Pacific railway, the former being by far the easier for it to control. The ground floor of Portland consists of a fine business section, a vast collection of wooden wharves in various stages of construction and decay and a residence section which is extending so fast that the humble laborer often builds a one-story cottage up against a 250-foot pine tree in the forest primeval two blocks from the street car line. The second story of Portland consists of a 900-foot bluff inhabited by citizens with good hearts, who get to their homes by means of stairs, ladders and a dizzy trolley line.

Portland is magnificently equipped with scenery, and on a clear day, according to old inhabitants, four snow-covered peaks can be seen. However, Portland is very sparsely supplied with clear days. It rains all fall, winter and spring and the Portland man who goes east gets so homesick that he has to sit under a sprinkling can for relief. Dust is one of the least of Portland's troubles. On the other hand, the fire department makes every man shovel the dry moss off of his roof in summer. There is many a moss-covered bucket shop in Portland.

Portland is an ancient town for the Pacific coast and is full of fine old families, including many people who were born in the city. It is growing so fast that any estimate of its population would be an affront to its commercial club. Portland people often refer back to 1910, when Portland contained only 208,000 inhabitants.

Portland is just around the corner from the Columbia river, and steamships desiring to reach Japan, Hong Kong or Australia have only to steam down to the Columbia and turn to the left. Portland ships lumber, flour, salmon, wool and grain to all the world and does a flourishing business as metropolis of Oregon and center of Oregon politics. It belongs to the survivors' league of exposition cities and expects to double in size when the Panama canal is dug.

PARCEL POST HINTS

By Abe Martin.

(Copyrighted, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Pustmaster Gabe Craw has pusted th' followin' parcel pust rules an' regulations fer th' convenience o' th' patrons o' his office:

Th' fust zone shall include all territory within such quadrangle, in conjunction with every contiguous quadrangle, representin' an area havin' a mean radial distance o' approximately one hundred an' fifty miles from th' center, o' a given unit o' area, er visa versa. A quadrangle is a four-sided figure.

Seventy-two inches is th' limit fer squashes.

Crosscut saws, porcupines an' scythes, an' other mailable matter o' a character likely, er liable, t' lacerate, maim, wound er otherwise interfere with a rural carrier's life, liberty er pursuit o' happiness should be carefully packed in excelsior an' crated.

Do not pound stamps after they're affixed. It shakes th' mail out o' th' boxes.

In mailin' a pitchfork it should be given t' th' carrier er pustmaster handle fust.

In mailin' onions it is permissible t' write, "With Best Wishes," "Merry Christmus," "Safe an' Sane Fourth," er "Happy New Year" on th' package.

Th name an' address o' th' sender should be scratched on th' upper left-hand corner o' a watermelon t' insure its prompt an' reg'lar delivery.

An egg, er eggs, bearin' any message er communication, sich as "I hope these few lines'll find you well," etc., written either with an indelible pencil, fountain er other kind o' pen, er chalk, will not be admissible at parcel pust rates. Any egg, er eggs, bearin' such message, er communication, will be subject t' fust class, er letter pustage.

Where any message, er communication, either written er printed, in th' manner aforesaid, is found among th' giblets in a drawn duck er hen th' addressee'll be obliged t' pay somethin' like $1.09 additional pustage er let it alone.

All parcels should be wrapped so as t' be easily examined. Examination free.

Th' sender may write his occupation, along with name an' address, in th' upper left hand corner o' a package, as 'Ike Soles, Bull Mooser, Green Fork, Wayne County, Indianny."

All country butter held for pustage'll be chloroformed after two days.

"In Haste" written on packages containin' perishable matter, will insure its delay.

On packages mailable under th' parcel pust a mother is allowed t' write "socks," er "pigs feet," er "muffins," er "undershirt," er such terms as'll designate th' contents. Such terms should be written at a safe distance from th' point o' destination thereon written, so as not t' confuse th' rural carrier.

Stuffed sausage should be tied an' not sewed at th' ends so as t' be easily accessible fer inspection. If sewed th' letter rate'll be imposed, thereby increasin' th' cost o' livin'.

Nothin' scurrilous o' any girth will be accepted fer transmission.

A goat muff should be deodorized an' mailed in a stove pipe, er other metal container.

What Georgia Deserves

By Sam W. Small.

In his letters to me President-elect Wilson has not intimated in the slightest way that he means to call any Georgia man into his cabinet. I rather reckon that he does not intend any such thing.

However, that does not avoid the fact that Georgia, as the most stalwart and unswerving of all the democratic states of the nation, is entitled to figure high and large in any democratic national administration.

In all these hundred and twenty-four years of the government, and under twenty-seven presidents, Georgia has only had eight members of the presidential cabinet.

One of the original thirteen states, always ranking well in population and high in the power of her politics and the abilities of her statesmen, and yet this really pitiful cabinet record!

New York has been represented in the cabinet 37 times; Massachusetts, 35; Pennsylvania, 29; Ohio, 24; Virginia, 22; Maryland, 18; Kentucky, 15; Illinois, 10; Connecticut, Indiana and Tennessee, 9 times each—and all of them so many times ahead of Georgia.

Surely, by all the reasons that ought to control political rights, Georgia should have a "look in" with this latest democratic administration, don't you think? And we have some mighty good and easily entreatable timber in Georgia that would fit admirably into the new cabinet. I need not name the individuals—everyone of them, of course, knows that I have him in mind!

It is true that President George Washington, in 1795, called Joseph Habersham, of Georgia, to be postmaster general, and that he remained in that office through the administration of John Adams, and for a few months of Jefferson's first term, beginning in 1801. But the postmaster general was not then a cabinet officer, and did not rise to that dignity until Jackson's administration began in 1829.

President Madison gave Georgia her first cabinet officer in 1815, when he recalled William H. Crawford from being minister to France to become secretary of war. The following year, 1816, Crawford was raised to be secretary of the treasury and when Monroe became president in 1817 he retained Crawford during both terms until 1825. Those nine years mark the longest cabinet tenure any Georgian has ever had.

When Andrew Jackson became president in 1829 he appointed John McPherson Berrien to be attorney general. He served two years, and was succeeded by Roger B. Taney, who afterwards became chief justice of the supreme court and famous for the fateful Dred Scott decision respecting the fugitive slave law.

In his second term President Jackson, in 1834, called John Forsyth, of Georgia, to be secretary of state, and he served out that term with Old Hickory, was reappointed by President Van Buren in 1837, and stepped down with the advent of President William Henry Harrison, who made Daniel Webster his premier of the cabinet.

Georgia's next cabinet officer was George W. Crawford, who was made secretary of war by President Taylor, and served 1849-50. Then he was succeeded by Edward Bates, of Missouri, who served only a few months, because on the death of Taylor and the succession of Fillmore to the presidency, the latter immediately supplied himself with a brand-new cabinet. That Edward Bates was the father of Lieutenant General John C. Bates, now retired from the head of the army, and was again in the cabinet in Abraham Lincoln's first administration as attorney general for two years.

Howell Cobb was called by President Buchanan to be secretary of the treasury from 1857 until the presages of coming war caused him to resign in 1860 and to prepare for the illustrious part he played in the southern confederacy.

Greatly to the amazement of all Georgians, except ex-Governor Joseph E. Brown, who arranged the affair, President Grant appointed Colonel Amos T. Akerman, of Cartersville, to be attorney general in 1870, but for some reason Colonel Akerman only remained on the job until in 1871, when George H. Williams, of Oregon, was substituted. President Grant would better have held on to Akerman, for he was a straight-up honest man, while his successor became nationally notorious as "Landau Williams," because of charges of official corruption made against him and for which he narrowly escaped impeachment.

President Cleveland called Hoke Smith to the cabinet as secretary of the interior in 1893. He resigned in 1896, during the hot first McKinley-Bryan campaign, but his administration of the department stands up as a model one in all respects.

Oh, well, if Georgia doesn't get a place in the new cabinet all of us will at least have the pride of knowing that Georgians do not have to be paid to be or to remain democrats of the true-blue stripe!

PONDEROUS PERSONAGE

Nero

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Nero was a human being who disguised the fact more successfully than any other historical personage. He was born 1,875 years ago, but the fact isn't celebrated anywhere. He was educated by a private tutor and was adopted by the Roman Emperor Claudius, who soon died, as most of the Roman emperors did, and left the throne to Nero.

Nero was at this time a handsome youth who could fiddle pretty well, and was very popular socially. He started out with the intention of being a good emperor, but this fact soon slipped his mind, and he poisoned his mother, Agrippina, who was something of a politician herself, and began to run the empire alone.

It was the wildest joy ride that any nation ever experienced. Nero slept days and raised thunder nights. His morals were so bad that even the Romans were shocked at them, and he was so haughty and disagreeable that his executioners had to work in four-hour shifts. Nero soon became the most fatal disease in Rome. Anyone who failed to please him was at once exterminated. If he was an enemy he was boiled alive. If he was a personal friend he was beheaded as a favor. Pleasing Nero soon became the popular Roman pastime, and the losers were collected by the coroner.

Nero spent all the money in the treasury on the Roman equivalent for chorus girls and let them run the nation. He was so reckless that one night when a fuse burned out while he was at a slumming party he burned the city of Rome to provide light, and fiddled while the firemen worked. He had a great hatred of Christians, and considered no day well spent unless he had wrapped up a few hundred of them in skins soaked in pitch and had set fire to them. Nero gave more than one garden party at which the illuminations were furnished by burning Christians. This was the origin of the ornamental street lighting idea now so popular.

Nero might have lived to a great old age, but it soon became evident that both Nero and the Romans couldn't survive. The supply of the latter was becoming rapidly exhausted. So a few plots were started, and finally Nero discovered that unless something was done quickly he would be cut into bits and distributed to the populace. He did the something himself with a sword and ten minutes afterwards life insurance rates in Rome went down 90 per cent.

There is no lesson to be learned from Nero, because outside of the few humans who sell poisons for medicine and work little children to death in their mills we have none of his sort left.

The World's Mysteries

WAS GEN. CHARLES LEE A TRAITOR?

One of the greatest tasks that fell to the lot of General George Washington during and just prior to the revolutionary war, was to distinguish among the brave men under his command just who were and who were not exactly loyal to the cause of the patriots. All conflicts of this character are bound to bring into prominence that class of men who are always looking for adventure and who will throw their lot into the side where they believe they can satisfy this desire the most thoroughly. The constant watch that Washington had to exercise in this regard was more trying upon him than was the whereabouts of the enemy. You can close the doors against the enemy on the outside, but it is hard to do anything with the traitor within.

It has always been a grave question with the historians as just where to place General Charles Lee. He was a brave man undoubtedly, but even up to the time of his death he did such odd and unusual things that even his friends were not able to decide whether or not he was thoroughly sincere in anything. In the first place, Lee was an Englishman by birth. But so were many of the other men who fought with the patriot army. He had fought with the British army in America against the French and Indians. But he became so unpopular with his superior officers that he was dismissed from the service.

Being an adventurer in character with a great idea of his own ability and importance, he drifted to Poland and Russia, where, serving as a soldier of fortune, he finally attained the rank of major general. He loved intrigue, and said he hated the country of his birth. Naturally, having drifted to America just prior to the revolution, when that struggle commenced, and Lee tendered his services to the continental army, they were accepted, for experienced men like him were badly needed.

Washington might have been suspicious of his loyalty when he bargained so shrewdly with congress as to the rank he was to hold. But it was not the time long to weigh opinions. The English knew him, undoubtedly better than the Americans were able to judge him, for when it became known in England that he had entered the American service a British general remarked: "From what I know of him, he is the worst present that could be made to any army."

From the very first he seems to have had designs upon securing for himself Washington's position as commander-in-chief. And still worse, there are many things to be seen now that might go to prove that he was a traitor to this country, and meant to sell it out at the best possible terms to the British. At the start it seemed to be his usual habit to disobey his superior officer's orders, and when he was captured by the British it was quietly rumored that it was a part of his plot, to negotiate with them.

At any rate the British treated him with more than the usual courtesy, and it is even affirmed that he consulted with them as to the best plan to crush the revolution. Was it in the belief of the British that he would be of more use to them in the revolutionary army than as a prisoner that they set him free? It is said that a complete plan by which the colonies might be overthrown, in Lee's own draft, was found, after the war, among General Howe's private papers.

Then came the famous battle of Monmouth. Washington had sent Lee with an advance guard of six thousand men to overtake the British who were retreating across New Jersey to the British headquarters at New York. Lee caught up with the British at Monmouth on June 28, 1778, but began his attack in such an incompetent way that a secret messenger was dispatched by Lafayette to Washington, begging the commander-in-chief to hurry to the front. Washington arrived in time to find Lee in full retreat, but he rallied the army and saved the day, but not before he had administered a stinging rebuke to the commander.

Thereupon, Lee wrote Washington two insulting letters, and the latter ordered his arrest. He was court-martialed and suspended from active service for a month, during which time he lived like a hermit in a mountain hut. At the end of the year he was dismissed from the army for an insulting letter he wrote to congress. At the close of the war he settled in the Shenandoah valley, and while on a visit to Philadelphia in 1782 he died. He was buried in Christ church yard, and, strange to say, with full military honors.

There were many Americans who believed to the end in the loyalty of General Charles Lee, but if it existed, it must have been curbed by his ambition for self-aggrandizement.

New News of Yesterday

The Son Who Profited by His Father's Lapse of Memory.

By E. J. Edwards.

(Copyrighted, 1913, for The Constitution.)

This daily series of anecdotes and incidents that throw new, interesting and frequently dramatic light on famous events and personalities of the past have been collected by Mr. Edwards during nearly forty years of more or less intimate acquaintance with many of the country's leaders since the civil war. Each anecdote or incident is fresh from Mr. Edwards' notebook, and, either in whole or in part, it constitutes NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY, garnered from the men who made the news—the history—or from equally authoritative sources. As important contributions of the "human interest" sort to American history, these articles have a distinctive value all their own.

The late P. B. Gallaudet, who was for many years a leading private banker and broker of New York and who was a member of the distinguished family of that name which has done so much for deaf mutes, told me a short time before his death that he had frequently observed that men of great wealth, and, especially those who prided themselves on the faithfulness with which they attended to details, sometimes forgot that they were owners of stocks and bonds of considerable value.

E. J. Edwards.

"I think the most impressive illustration of that weakness which came under my personal observation was that furnished by a very rich manufacturer of New Jersey, who was a customer of my house," said Mr. Gallaudet.

"This man accumulated a fortune of nearly $15,000,000. He often told me that he had gained his wealth by the faithfulness with which he followed up every detail of his business. He said to me that on the first of every month he knew to a dollar what he was worth. He had an elaborate system of verifying accounts and also of keeping schedules of his possessions. He prided himself on the fact that no man had ever been able to overreach him in a business transaction. One morning his son came into my office and said to me:

"'I have just made an astonishing discovery. I have been to the safe deposit vaults to get some securities for my father. He has a list of all the securities that he owns or at least thought that he had such a list, as well as the places where they are kept. Now I discovered this morning a package of railroad bonds which bear 8 per cent interest. My father had utterly forgotten them. They were tucked away in one corner of one of the safe deposit boxes, and I discovered them only by accident. Here they are.'

"When I looked at these bonds," Mr. Gallaudet continued, "I saw that the coupons had not been cut off for ten years. The aggregate interest amounted therefore to a large sum. The young man said to me that he was going to ask his father if he might have any bonds that his father had forgotten. He left the bonds with me for safe-keeping.

"A day or two later the young man came in with his father. He said to his father in an offhand way: 'If I found any bonds of yours that you had forgotten would you give them to me?' and the father replied that he would not; adding, however, that he had not forgotten any bonds.

"'But if I did find some bonds would you give me any interest that had accumulated?'

"'You are welcome to all the interest which I haven't collected on my bonds,' his father said.

"I was then asked to produce the bonds. I never saw anything more amusing than the expression on the old man's face when those bonds were shown him. He looked puzzled for a moment, and then slowly recalled the fact that some years earlier he had bought those bonds, put them away and forgotten them. But he kept the bargain. He told me to cut off the coupons and give them to the boy. I did that, and then the old man took the bonds and put them in a large wallet which he carried in an inside pocket. He went away humiliated. I thought, at the idea that he should have forgotten that he was the owner of a considerable property of this kind."

CONSCIENCE

By George Matthew Adams.

Be Square.

The man of all men most miserable is the man with a worn, weary, weeping Conscience.

Be Square.

Conscience is the fellow who sits on the throne of your Soul and calls out the Danger Signal when your life craft sight Icebergs. Conscience is the pilot of a man's Hope towards Success. Conscience is the Busy Signal sign that halts a man just as he is about to do what he ought not to, but wants to. Conscience is the Stay Hand that stops the crowd from stealing away your Character.

Be Square.

Conscience is Duty—in every-day clothes.

Be Square.

Conscience is what you feel but do not hear. Conscience is the still, strong, silent, unseen Force that is ever with you—that invariably hunches you in the ribs—mute warner that you are on the wrong track, traveling in the wrong direction, playing the wrong game. Regardless of all other heeds, beck or call—hear, listen to—obey your Conscience to the letter.

Be Square.

The Man with the Conscience makes the Business with a Conscience. The Business with the Conscience makes the Nation with the Conscience. Conscience in Power is joy abound—real achievement athrone.

Be Square.

As a Man or Woman, think it over. Conscience to you is as no other Conscience to any other man or woman. And the height to which Peace and Power may climb in you can only be in proportion to the Peace and Power which obedience to Conscience brings. So, follow your own Conscience all the way.

Be Square.

Character Cameos

By Robert V. Carr

Do you know anyone like this?

Type No. 92.—Sheepherder. Age 58. Expression, frank and humorous. Hair and beard, brown and silky. Hands and feet, small. Works 3 months a year, and balance of time "tramps." Carries 65-pound pack which includes bed, provisions, tobacco, cooking utensils and always two or three good books. Three months ago No. 92 was camped under a mesquite tree on the edge of the Imperial valley. His coffee was cooking, his 10 cents worth of round steak was ready for the pan, and he was contentedly reading the psalms of David. It was a glorious desert morning. The air was tangy with mesquite and sage. No. 92's wood and water cost him nothing. He had no rent to pay, no investments to worry about, no clock or calendar to watch. Utterly at peace he rested beneath that mesquite, and read, "The Lord is my shepherd—"

Comment.—It must be admitted that in many ways No. 92 is to be envied. He was asked what he considered to be man's greatest fault. "Too many wants," was his answer.

PEOPLE MUST ACT OR ATLANTA FAILS

Saturday Last Moment for Helping Send Fifth Regiment to Inauguration.

"If the people of Atlanta want the city to be represented at the inauguration by its regiment, their wishes must be substantially evidenced before noon Saturday by notifying some of the subcommittees, Mr. Forrest Adair or myself. The regiment will under no other circumstances make the trip, except to represent and advertise the city and by the wish of its citizens." This is the statement made by Colonel E. E. Pomeroy Thursday night.

While but $1,500 more is needed to send the regiment to Washington, it is absolutely necessary that this amount be on hand not later than Saturday at noon, according to Colonel Pomeroy, or it will be too late to be of any use, and the trip will have to be given up. Options for the quarters of the Fifth while they are in Washington have been renewed, and are now being held pending orders to reserve them; but these options expire Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and if they are not reserved by that time it is very doubtful whether quarters can be secured at all.

The subcommittees were at work all day Thursday, and it was stated that they had met with some success in obtaining small subscriptions from private citizens, which are now being asked, but they finished work too late to make any detailed report. L. J. Daniel, despite the fact that he is one of the busiest men in the city, took time on Thursday to communicate with several people, and secured a number of subscriptions. Colonel Pomeroy and Forrest Adair will mail out between 50 and 100 letters today to citizens who have never been approached, and it is expected that this will be productive of substantial results.

The old Gate City Guard has announced that it will give the last $100 of the $1,500 necessary. This donation will be made by the Guard as a corporate body and not as a military organization.

Altogether, the outlook appears considerably better to the leaders in the subscription campaign than it has in several days.

The following compose the committees who are at work, and to whom subscriptions may be made:

Colonel E. E. Pomeroy and Forrest Adair, L. J. Daniel and Captain C. A. Stokes, W. S. Lounsbury and Major I. T. Catron, Walter P. Andrews and Lieutenant Hal Morrison, Roff Sims and Captain E. Z. Arnold, and A. S. Adams and Captain W. J. Stoddard.

In addition to these committees, General C. L. Anderson and Captain Oscar are working along special lines.

FLOWERS BANKED AT MR. KELLY'S FUNERAL

Over the body of Thomas J. Kelly the simple funeral ritual of the Christian Science church was read Thursday afternoon, at the funeral services, which were held in Patterson's chapel. Banks of flowers filled the chapel, the last loving testimony of scores of friends before the body of the well-known newspaer man was borne to its last resting place. The services were conducted by A. P. Norman, reader of the Christian Science faith, and not only the words of the ritual but also the beautiful prayer read expressed the eternal farewell wishes of the many friends who attended the services.

The body was then taken to West View cemetery, where it was lowered into the grave. The pallbearers were E. H. Carmen, F. M. Scofield, John Hall, R. A. Hemphill, Dr. P. E. Murray, Frank Weldon and W. F. Crusselle. Mr Kelly's only daughter, Mrs. W. S. Royster, of Norfolk, Va., was present at the funeral with her child, having come from Virginia on news of her father's death.

BISHOP M'COY WILL OPEN CUBAN MISSION CAMPAIGN

Bishop J. H. McCoy, laymen and leaders in the Georgia Woman's Missionary society will speak Sunday morning and evening in the Methodist churches in behalf of the campaign to raise $15,000 for Cuba. This money is to go toward the erection of a $40,000 Methodist church in Havana.

The campaign will begin Friday night with a supper to lay leaders and ministers and will continue until the latter part of the month.

The various pulpits of the denomination will be filled morning and evening by well-known speakers, both clergy and laity.

PLEA OF GUILTY MADE BY RIMES

Man Arrested in Scoggins Girl Case Had Started Divorce Suit.

Ross D. Rimes, who was arrested on charges made by the father of Miss Gladys Scoggins, the young Newnan milliner, pleaded guilty in the city criminal court and was fined $150 yesterday, and was recognized as the man who on January 27 obtained a first verdict of divorce in the superior court from his wife, Mrs. Corinne Rimes.

In entering his plea of guilty, Rimes addressed the court only through his attorney, Harvey Hill. Rimes said that he would leave the city immediately, when sentence had been passed.

Rimes came to Atlanta on January 24 with Miss Scoggins, according to evidence, which he did not deny before the court. On January 27 he obtained his first verdict, asserting that his wife had deserted him three years previously. At that time he declared himself a bona fide resident of Fulton county.

Whether or not the superior court officials will take up the question of his residency in this county has not yet been stated.

"LOST CHORD" TO CHARM MANY AT AUDITORIUM

In choosing the "Lost Chord" for the principal feature of the free choral concert at the Auditorium-Armory Sunday afternoon, the Atlanta Music Festival association has picked out a piece of music that is not only beautiful, but is also "spectacular" in a musical sense to the highest degree. When properly sung it has the most tremendous volume of sound of any piece of music that has been written in modern times. When it was played by the United States marine band to the accompaniment of the great organ at the Auditorium last season the great steel girders of that building vibrated with the sound and its very foundations almost seemed to rock. It is not noise. It is wonderful harmony and volume.

This piece of music, therefore, will serve better than any other to show the music-loving Atlanta public what a magnificent organization the city now has in this Music Festival chorus of between 400 and 500 voices. This chorus is going to be permanent; it is going to be a continuous factor henceforth in the musical life of the community.

RAIN, AND MAYBE SNOW, PREDICTED FOR TODAY

Rain is coming this afternoon or tonight, and, according to the disturbed condition of the weather man, there is a chance that some snow will fall. However, as the high wind of yesterday is not due today, the temperature will feel much more pleasant than it did on Thursday, when it was really warmer than the day before, but felt colder.

A wind that at times reached the velocity of 18 miles an hour howled and whistled around Atlanta's downtown canyons Thursday, and not only whisked many hats off and furnished amusement for the idlers around the Candler building, but made the average man believe that the mercury had taken a sudden drop.

The temperature at 7 o'clock this morning is due to be 32 or 34 degrees, and as the day continues it will rise until the moisture temporarily cools things off again. The rain, or perhaps snow, will not amount to much, and no marked change is looked for.

FAMILY OF J. M. STEPHENS HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

When a fire that completely destroyed their Park street home broke out yesterday morning about 8 o'clock, the family of J. M. Stephens, a well-known official of the Western Union Telegraph company, narrowly escaped from the burning building before the roof caved in.

Misses Nan, Grace and Frances Stephens, with their guest, Miss Daisy Martin, were aroused first. They spread the alarm, and the father and mother rushed from the place just before the upper structure fell through. The entire residence was destroyed, with all the household goods and personal effects

The company is composed entirely of Americus business men. The new industry will engage extensively in manufacture of metal roofing and builders' supplies.

ADDRESSED ONLY WITH PHOTO, LETTER REACHES A. M. BEATTY

"How to save ink"—by Paul Reese, ex-president of the Atlanta Ad Men's club—price 2 cents, is the newest conundrum, as the result of a clever stunt pulled off by Paul—by which, incidentally, he won the "dopes" from James T. Scott, local agent of the Clyde line.

The answer is: "Paste your correspondent's picture on the letter you want to send him, instead of addressing it."

A miniature photo of A. M. Beatty, clipped from a Sunday school magazine, was placed on the outside of a letter written by Mr. Reese to Mr. Beatty, and was mailed. Nothing else was on the envelope to indicate for whom the letter was intended—just the thumb-nail picture, and, of course, "Atlanta, Ga." It was received at the postoffice and stamped at 11:30 a. m., February 4, and at 2 o'clock that same afternoon it was delivered to Mr. Beatty in the Postal Telegraph office, on Broad street, by the postman. Imagine Mr. Beatty's surprise. When he picked up the letter he thought it was some kind of a patented mirror.

The contention of Mr. Scott, prior to the sending of the letter, was that the postoffice department was "too slow to keep a turtle from walking away with a registered letter in its mouth." Paul Reese stood up for the postoffice, and declared that a letter would be delivered if it didn't have a line of address on it—simply a man's picture.

"Oh, yes, Captain English, Bob Maddox, Colonel Lowry and a few others," said Scott.

"No, just any ordinary business man of Atlanta," answered Reese. "We'll send a letter with a picture on it of some man who's never mixed in politics and never led a public life."

A. M. BEATTY,

And so they selected Mr. Beatty, and the postoffice delivered the goods. Whereat someone is predicting a wholesale slump in the price of ink, and a crowded condition in the mucilage market of the country.

CHERRY ST. DEPOT FAVORED BY SOME

Others of Macon, However, Will Fight Proposition of the Central.

Macon, Ga., February 6.—(Special.)—The Central of Georgia railway will not be permitted to close up Cherry street for its new $1,250,000 terminal station without a struggle by a number of Macon people vitally interested in the new depot.

This fact became known today when it was announced that an injunction will be applied for to prevent the closing up of the street, the prime movers reported behind this plan being Stephen Popper, Steve Wright, F. W. Armstrong and others. Mr. Popper owns land adjoining the Cherry street site, while Mr. Armstrong is proprietor of the Brown house, located directly opposite the present depot. He had planned to spend $200,000 on his hotel if the new depot was put on the site of the presenet one. Alderman Steve Wright says he is opposed to closing up any of the city's streets.

Macon has received the announcement of the plan of the Central of Georgia railway with varied degrees of satisfaction. Some are heartily in favor of the plan; others say they will favor it if the city does not have to pay the damage to the adjoining property owners, while others are opposed to the depot being located there, and think the Central should put it on the site of the present one.

J. S. M'KINNON MADE TRAVELING FREIGHT AGT.

J. S. McKinnon, who was formerly in the commercial office of the Southern railway in Atlanta, but for the past year has been in the office of W. N. Mitchell, the Southern representative of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has been appointed by Mr. Mitchell as traveling freight agent and is being congratulated by his many railroad friends in the city.

Mr. Mitchell has appointed as his new secretary W. M. Baumgartner, of Baltimore, Md. Mr. Baumgartner was for a time in the government service at Panama and has recently been connected with the local staff of The Baltimore American. Mr. Baumgartner is the brother of J. H. Baumgartner, the publicity representative of the Baltimore and Ohio system, who is well known by the American press.

BOY'S FINE IS REMITTED TO PARENTS IN IRELAND

Through the pleas of a local Episcopal minister and a pitiful letter from his poverty-stricken parents in Ireland, who had by great difficulty raised $75 to pay his fine, the sentence of Albert Cornell was on Thursday commuted to present service, which is four months, by Governor Brown, and the money was ordered returned to Cornell's parents.

Cornell has been in this country only a few years. He was convicted in the city court of Atlanta of stealing automobile supplies. Failing to raise the necessary money to free himself, he wrote to his parents, of Richmond road, Longford, Ireland, who finally were able to borrow the money and send it to him, but by doing so made themselves "the talk of the road."

FIVE JAILED ON MURDER CHARGE

Son of Turner Sheriff Among Those Held for Killing at King's Mill.

Cordele, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) With charges of murder and assault with intent to murder hanging over them, Clyde King, son of Sheriff J. A. King, of Turner county, and Bennie Brown, Sam Apperson, Bill Little and J. T. Holland are now confined in the Turner county jail. The charges against them growing out of the shooting affray at King's mill, near Sycamore, during the latter part of November of last year.

Ed Brown, against whom the Turner county grand jury today returned indictments on like charges, is at the Macon hospital undergoing an operation for appendicitis and he will be arrested shortly if his condition permits as a result of the bloody affray, which arose over a severe whipping of J. D. Christmas by the mill operatives on account of alleged attentions to a negro woman. George Christmas was killed and J. N. Christmas and J. W. Ward were seriously wounded.

The Christmas boys and Ward resided in Vienna, in Dooly county, and the difficulty took place after they had gone to the mill to the assistance of J. D. Christmas. It is claimed that they offered to settle the matter without further difficulty if the mill operatives would pay for Christmas' clothing which they had burned and make further amends for his thrashing, but that the mill employees replied with shots. Young King was arrested by Deputy Sheriff O. B. Jorman.

$200 for Macon Home.

LUNACY CHARGE CAUSE OF SUIT

Aged Valdostan, Released From Jail, Asks $50,000 Damages of Sheriff.

Valdosta, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) An aftermath of the arrest of Colonel C. S. Morgan, an aged attorney of this city, on a charge of lunacy, is the filing of suits here for $50,000 damages against Sheriff J. E. Gornto, Deputy Sheriff J. L. Parrish, W. A. Rudd and the surety company which is on the sheriff's bond. The suits against the sheriff and deputy are against them personally, and were entered in the city court, service in the suits having been made by Coroner Solomon.

Colonel Morgan, who is 70 years old, was confined in the county jail some weeks ago on a lunacy charge made by Rudd, one of the defendants in the damage suit. While in jail, Colonel Morgan prepared a writ of habeas corpus which he argued himself before Judge Thomas of the superior court. The attorney claimed that the proceedings against him wree illegal, and that the signatures of his brothers and sisters to the warrant for his detention were forgeries. The result of the hearing before Judge Thomas was the release of Colonel Morgan from prison and the dropping of the case against him.

STRICKEN IN COLUMBUS DEPOT, RUFUS WISE DIES

Columbus, Ga., February 6—(Special) A white man about 35 years old, giving his name as Rufus Wise, while in the waiting room at the union passenger station here this morning about 2 o'clock had a stroke of apoplexy from which he died in the city hospital early tonight. The man had been talking to the ticket agent, telling his name and stating that he was expecting a railroad ticket to be sent him from Albany, Ga.

It is not known whether the ticket was to take him to Albany or not, or whether Albany was his home. He is not known here and there were no papers on his person that would identify him. No money or valuables were found on him. Following is a description of him: six feet tall, weight, 160 apparently, working man of good appearance, reddish hair, clean shaven and neatly dressed. The body is being held at the undertaker's.

E. T. COMER NOW HEADS BIBB MANUFACTURING CO.

Macon, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) G. Gunby Jordan, of Columbus, today, retired from the presidency of the Bibb Manufacturing company, and E. T. Comer, of Millhaven, was elected to succeed him.

The annual meeting of the stockholders was held here and the following board of directors elected: E. T. Comen, of Millhaven; James H. Porter, of Macon; W. D. Anderson, of Macon; Mills B. Lane, of Savannah; Samuel B. Adams, of Savannah; W. C. Bradley, of Columbus; A. Weber, of Savannah; E. W. Stetson, of Macon; McEwen Johnston, of Macon, and B. F. O'Neal, of Macon.

The directors elected the following officers: E. T. Comer, of Millhaven, president; John H. Porter, Macon, first vice president; W. D. Anderson, Macon, second vice president; Charles Williamson, secretary and treasurer, and A. P. Finley, assistant secretary and treasurer.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO COMMUTE SENTENCE

Governor Joseph M. Brown on Thursday declined to interfere in the execution of the death sentence imposed upon John Phillips, a Tift county negro, who killed James Smith, another negro, in a row over a card game in a turpentine "shanty."

Phillips will be hanged in Tifton today.

BOY ARRESTED AS MEMBER MURRAY CO. WHITECAPS

Dalton, Ga., February 6.—A long distance telephone message from Spring Place, Murray county, received here this morning, brings news of the arrest of Joe Callahan, of Tilton, charged with being a member of the masked band that whipped John Shannon in Murray county several weeks ago.

Callahan, a mere boy, 20 years old, is in jail and strongly denies being connected with the night riders. He was arrested by Sheriff Wilbanks last night.

Shannon had the warrant issued and claims to have snatched the mask from one of his assailants, recognizing Callahan. The prisoner is being held pending the meeting of the Murray county grand jury next week, when the matter will be thoroughly investigated. Other arrests are expected.

Fine Watches Reasonably Priced

We are particularly proud of our stock of watches. Most jewelry stores accumulate a big stock of unsalable watches by changing buyers often and getting job lots of various makes which are not desirable.

We have been fortunate in keeping our stock free from inferior grades. We have the exclusive agency here for the celebrated Patek-Philippe watches and repeaters. We carry a full line of Hamiltons, Howards, Elgins, Walthams, Agassiz, Touchons, Longines and Omegas. The watch we illustrate is a 12 size, open-face, 15-jewel Elgin fitted in a 20-year Crescent case. Both movements and cases are fully guaranteed by the factories and ourselves. You can have your choice of a plain polished, Roman or engine-turned case, complete, for $15.00.

Call and let us show you our stock. We can save you money and please you perfectly with grades, prices and terms.

MISS SARAH JACKSON TO WED MR. STORM OF WILMINGTON

The engagement has been announced in Wilmington, N. C., of Miss Sarah George Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Jackson, of Charleston, S. C., to Mr. Walter W. Storm, of Wilmington, the marriage to take place in April at Grace Episcopal church in Charleston. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents on Rutledge avenue.

Miss Jackson, who is an only child and one of the most admired young women in the social life of Charleston, is a niece of Mrs. Gus Dodd, of Atlanta, and on the occasion of visits with Mrs. Dodd and Mrs. Forrest Adair, Jr., she has endeared herself also to a host of friends here. A strikingly handsome young woman, she is a charming figure in the life of the younger set in both cities.

Mr. Storm is the only son of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Storm, of Wilmington. He is a graduate of Cornell university and a prominent business man.

Early Dinner Dances.

An innovation at the Piedmont Driving club will be informal dinner dances every Saturday, dancing to begin at 5 o'clock and last until 10 o'clock, with dinner at 7 o'clock.

The first of these "early" affairs will be Saturday of this week, and it is expected that there will be a ready enthusiasm for the reasonableness of the new plan, which will be tried out for several weeks to come. The management requests immediate reservations.

Bridge Tea.

Mrs. J. J. Murphy entertained sixteen guests at bridge tea yesterday in compliment to an attractive group of visitors, Miss Melton, of Crawfordville; Miss Wright, of Greensboro; Miss Shouse, of Madison, the guests of Mrs. Charles N. Dennis. The decorations were of narcissi and the prizes were white and gold china.

To Miss Rowland.

Mr. Edward Gay gave an enjoyable dancing party last night at the Driving club in compliment to Miss Frances Rowland, of New York, the guest of Mrs. Forrest Adair.

Supper at 11 o'clock was served from a table effectively decorated in pink, the centerpiece of carnations.

Domino Luncheon.

Miss Lucile Trammell was guest of honor at the domino party given yesterday morning by Mrs. Alfred Murrell and Mrs. Clarence Wickersham in College Park.

The prizes, silk stockings and a book, were won by Mrs. Emma Connally and Miss Trammell, and the game was followed by an elaborate luncheon. Jonquils were an effective decoration.

To Miss Anderson.

Miss Ethel Armistead gave an enjoyable heart-dice party yesterday morning in compliment to Miss Margaret Anderson, and the game was followed by a miscellaneous shower in honor of the pretty bride-elect.

There were twelve guests, and Miss Anderson won the prize, guest towels. The house was decorated with jonquils and dainty refreshments were served.

Miss Armistead was gowned in gray crepe de chine and Miss Anderson wore a midnight blue cloth gown trimmed with black satin and a black picture hat trimmed with plumes.

Simonton-Padgett.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Simonton, of Carrollton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Rebecca, to Mr. Alonzo Curtis Padgett, of Augusta, Ga., formerly of Leesville, S. C., the wedding to take place February 11 at home.

Anderson-Root.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Mary Anderson and Mr. L. R. Root will be an interesting event of Saturday evening, taking place at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, Mr. W. Harry Anderson, on West Tenth street.

The only attendants will be Miss Jewel Tillman and Mr. Hartwell Goldsmith, and Dr. Ogden will perform the ceremony. Miss Ethel Armistead will play the wedding march, and Miss Irma Sommer will sing.

At the reception following the ceremony Miss Charisle McClain and Miss Clara Harrison will serve punch, and other girl friends of the bride will assist in entertaining.

To Brides-Elect.

Mrs. Charles Wilkinson and Mrs. Chancellor Thornton will entertain at a large reception this afternoon at the new home of Mrs. Wilkinson, in College Park. Misses Lucile Trammell and Jane Johnston, two popular brides-elect, will be guests of honor, and two hundred ladies are invited to meet them.

Serving punch will be Misses Annie May Hardin, Love Johnson, Harriet Trammell and Freda Ashe.

Assisting in entertainment will be Mrs J. B. Hardin, Mrs. Harry Baylor, Mrs. Frances H. Drake, Miss Eva Thornton, Mrs. Stacey Thornton, Miss Annie Thornton, Mrs. Fred Schaefer, Miss May Jones, of Canton.

Mrs. McBryde Entertains.

Mrs. V. V. McBryde entertained at bridge tea yesterday in compliment to her guest, Mrs. C. A. Wootten, of New York, and the occasion was a pretty and enjoyable one. The decorations and score cards were jonquils, and the prizes were silk stockings, a book and a silver bonbon dish.

Mrs. Andrew Anderson and Mrs. W. C. Lanier assisted in entertaining.

Teabeaut-Candler.

The wedding of Miss Bennie Teabeaut and Mr. William Candler was a beautiful event of Wednesday evening taking place at the Methodist church in Cuthbert at 6 o'clock.

The church was artistically decorated with smilax, palms and ferns with a profusion of Easter lilies and pink roses. Through the greenery showed many tiny electric lights and electric lights formed the letters T. and C. in the arch under which the bridal party was grouped.

Miss Oda Teabeaut was her sister's maid of honor and Mr. Christian A. Rauchenberg, Jr., was best man.

The bridesmaids were Miss May Wilcox, of Fitzgerald; Miss Maggie Rogers, of Barnesville; Miss Della King, of Waycross, and Miss Susie Gunn, of Cuthbert.

Dr. Montague L. Boyd and Mr. Ben W. Steele, of Atlanta; Mr. Paul M. Munro, of Buena Vista, and Mr. Soarks Teabeaut were groomsmen. Messrs. Dumas Malone and Hubert Moye, of Cuthbert, were the ushers. Bishop Warren A. Candler, uncle of the groom, officiated.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white charmeuse satin trimmed in duchess lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried lilies of the valley and orchids.

The bridesmaids wore white satin gowns and carried pink roses. The little flower girls wore white accordion pleated chiffon gowns with pink ribbons and carried baskets of pink roses.

A large reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Teaubeaut, on Lumpkin street. Pink roses and narcissi with palms and ferns decorated the house.

The bride's table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth and the centerpiece was a large plateau of pink roses and narcissi, and all details of the table were in pink and white.

The bride's mother wore a handsome gown of rose charmeuse satin, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Asa Candler, of Atlanta, wore white charmeuse brocade trimmed in rose point lace and ermine.

Mr. and Mrs. Candler left for an extended trip south and on their return will be with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Candler, in Inman Park.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Asa Candler, Mr. Howard Candler, Mr. Asa Candler, Jr., and Mr. Walter Candler, Miss Louise Ripley, Mr. George E. Murphy, Mr. Frank Adair, Mr. Forrest Adair, Jr.

Matinee Party.

Miss Elizabeth Dudley entertained at a matinee party yesterday afternoon at the Grand in compliment to Miss Meta Mau, a bride-elect. The guests included Miss Mau's attendants.

For Mr. Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Stringfellow entertained informally at dinner last evening at their home in compliment to Mr. John Arthur Green, managing director of the American Book company, of New York, who is at the Georgian Terrace for a few days.

Old Question of "What to Wear" Invades Suffragette Meeting

"What shall we wear?"

This world-old question, which began when Eve first puzzled over her "fig leaf" trouseau, bobbed up again Thursday afternoon when twenty-five Atlanta women gathered to lay plans for their part in the big "woman suffrage" parade in Washington on March 3.

"Let us wear white," exclaimed one with an eloquent voice of patriotism. "White represents the purity of the south, and that's what we want to stand for when we march in that great phalanx of noble women appealing for their rights."

"Yes, let us wear white," echoed another enthusiastically. "For we come from the cotton states, and white represents the great cotton industry that supports our section."

"And let us wear yellow sashes," cried another. "For yellow can represent the vote which we are demanding, and it would mean that the vote is necessary to protect the purity represented by the white."

The dress problem was not decided, however, for there were other important features of the "On to Washington" campaign which had to be discussed. The question of costume was turned over to the "regalia committee," of which Mrs. I. B. McClellan is chairman.

Mrs. Amelia R. Woodall, president of the Atlanta Civic league, presided over the meeting and laid before the ladies the proposition. They are to get a special rate if they obtain a party of as many as twenty-five. Over a dozen have been pledged already.

A stirring address by Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of the Georgia Woman's Suffrage association, brought great enthusiasm. Blank pledges were distributed and many of the ladies expressed their intention of going if they could "arrange" it, giving a knowing little wink that meant they would go home and talk it over with their husbands.

Another meeting of the Atlanta Civic league will be held next Wednesday afternoon in the lecture hall of the Carnegie library also and reports will then be heard on the progress of the work. At this time a debate will be held on the "woman suffrage" question, with Mrs. Ada T. Ralls speaking on the affirmative, and Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter speaking on the negative.

Among those present at the meeting Thursday were Mrs. F. S. Whiteside, Miss Katherine Koch, Miss Laura M. Walker, Miss Annie I. Larkin, Mrs. I. B. McClellan, Mrs. Amelia R. Woodall, Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, Mrs. Alice C. Daniels, Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter, Miss Willie Chambers, Mrs. M. F. Bradley, Mrs. E. L. Brewer, Mrs. J. B. Gardner, Miss Susan McClellan, Miss Eugenia Estill, Miss S. E. Estill, Mrs. Lula Bennett, Mrs. Elizabeth McCarthy, Miss Elsie Pierce, Miss Florence Pierce and Mrs. Harry Smith.

PUJO TO ARRIVE FOR QUIZ TODAY

Fourth Estate May Be Excluded From Rockefeller Probe on Jekyl.

Brunswick, Ga., February 6.—Some ten or twelve staff correspondents of leading newspapers may be disappointed when they arrive in Brunswick tomorrow morning, expecting to go to Jekyl island to "cover" the Rockefeller quiz. According to a report received from the island tonight, the hearing will be strictly private, and the newspaper men will not be permitted to attend it. Efforts are being made tonight, however, to secure a permit for the entire delegation.

According to plans made tonight, the committee will arrive in Brunswick at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning, and will be conveyed to Jekyl island by special boat, and will be the guests of Mr. Rockefeller at luncheon. The examination to begin at 2 o'clock.

Percy Rockefeller, Dr. Walter F Chappelle and John E. Garver, of New York, Rockefeller's attorney, will arrive in Brunswick on a special car late tonight, and will proceed direct to Jekyl. Attorney Garver will consult Mr. Rockefeller in reference to permitting the newspaper men to attend, and will make some announcement in the morning.

Judge A. J. Crovatt, of this city, special attorney for the Jekyl Island club and for William Rockefeller in the forthcoming examination by the Pujo committee, spent a few hours on the island this morning in consultation with the Standard Oil magnate, arranging details for the visit of the committee.

"Mr. Rockefeller's voice is still weak," said Judge Crovatt, "and he is suffering with his throat. His health is very little improved, and the recent report that Mr. Rockefeller was enjoying golf games on the island is absurd. He has taken several long walks on the pretty roads of the island during the delightful weather, but as to golf, he said this morning that he never plays that game."

Pujo Leaves Washington.

Washington, February 6.—Chairman Pujo of the house "money trust" investigating committee, with several stenographers and reporters, joined Samuel Untermeyer, special counsel of the committee, here today, and proceeded for Jekyl Island, Ga., where they will arrive tomorrow and examine William Rockefeller, particularly regarding the operations connected with the organization of the Amalgamated Copper company. Mr. Rockefeller's health would not permit his coming to Washington for examination, physicians informed the committee.

Russia Bars Women Lawyers.

St. Petersburg, February 6.—The Duma bill, admitting women to practice law in Russia, was rejected today by the council of the empire by 34 to 66. The leading Russian jurists and practically the entire liberal public opinion in Russia favored the bill. The older generation of statesmen, headed by the minister of justice, however, pleaded eloquently and successfully against any extension of the rights of women.

BRIDE MURDERED AND GEMS STOLEN

Body Thrown Into a Pit—Five Suspects Held—Lynching Is Threatened.

Houston, Miss., February 6.—Mrs. John C. Williams, wife of a deputy chancery clerk of this county, was clubbed to death at her home here today, a diamond ring and brooch which she wore stolen and her body thrown into an abandoned pit under the house. Williams found his wife's body when he returned home at noon.

Five suspects, two white men and three negroes, were arrested early tonight. Should sufficient evidence be secured against any of the men it is anticipated he will be lynched.

Williams and the young woman, who was Miss Bessie Farr, were married last November.

THEATERS

"Freckles."

(At the Atlanta.)

When Neil Twomey dramatized "Freckles" he apparently followed the rule set down by one of America's foremost dramatists, of reading the novel, throwing it away and then writing a play, using what recollections came back to him as a basis for his characters. He made the little boy from whom the novel took its name into an older lad, growing into the responsibilities of manhood. Around him he has woven an appealing love story.

"Freckles" in the play is an orphan almost of age, who guards the Limberlost for a timber company and falls in love with a grl who is apparently far above his station in life, but he shows such a splendid manhood that even before he is proven to be descended from Irish nobility, both the girl and her friends want them to marry.

Percy Golden in the title role displays an attractve voice that has brogue in it that is bound to win the hearts of all who love the Irish. His characterization of the difficult part was easily handled.

Miriam Gasparo, as the "Angel," named and loved by "Freckles," is one of the youngest looking and least stagey of many actresses that have been here. There are a number of character parts in the play that furnish humor and pathos. James S. Kitts, as a camp cook and thief; Bernard Johnson, as Black Jack, a lumber thief; DeLancey Barclay, as head teamster, and Helen G. Judson, in the part of his wife, deserve special mention in these parts.

VERNON STILES.

Aborn Opera Co.

(At the Atlanta.)

Music lovers here and in surrounding towns are showing much interest in the coming of the Aborn English Grand Opera company to the Atlanta theater, February 10 and 11, on account of the splendid reputation this organization has established. For their coming engagement here the Aborn management will present "The Tales of Hoffman" Monday night, "Lucia di Lammermoor" at the Tuesday matinee and "Lohengrin" Tuesday night. Seats are now on sale.

"The Rosary."

(At the Lyric.)

Seldom does an author portray such an important character as that of a Catholic priest and have it meet with approval from the clergy. But this is just what has happened to Edward E. Rose, author of "The Rosary," which will be seen at the Lyric next week. The character will be portrayed by H. G. Keenan, an exceptional artist.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

There will be just four more opportunities for theatergoers to see the most excellent bill of vaudeville at the Grand this week. The show is headed by Little Chip and Mary Marble. The others on the bill are all quality acts, especially the Australian Woodchoppers. Next week Miss Percy Haswell will head the bill with a new comedy sketch and a special attraction will be Slivers, the famous circus clown.

"The Sunny Side of Broadway"

(At the Forsyth.)

Tabloid at the Forsyth has won its way right into the hearts of the theatergoers, who will yet find that the 9:30 o'clock night show is a convenient one, for there need be no rush from dinner, and at the same time no delay in bedtime. This week Max Bloom in "The Sunny Side of Broadway" is winning attendance records and next week the attraction will be "The Time the Place and the Girl."

"Satan Sanderson."

(At the Lyric.)

Of the many book plays of the past few seasons none have given better satisfaction or drawn larger audiences than "Satan Sanderson," being presented at the Lyric this week by Norman Hackett and his clever company. This is Mr. Hackett's first appearance in Atlanta at popular prices, and his presentation is in every way a notable performance. Matinee as usual on Saturday.

RUSH OF BUSINESS FOR PARCEL POST

40,000,000 Packages Handled in January and Business Is Increasing.

Washington, February 6.—Approximately 40,000,000 parcel post packages were handled during January. At the fifty largest postoffices 19,365,433 parcels were handled in the first month of the operation of the new system, and the business of the last two weeks exceeded that of the first two weeks by more than 5,000,000 packages.

Chicago exceeded all other cities in the number of parcels handled, its total being 4,163,153. New York handled 3,519,788; Atlanta, 183,000; St. Paul, 181,056; New Orleans, 166,391; Dallas, 130,200; Louisville, 114,076; Richmond, 100,000; Nashville, 69,270; Jacksonville, 42,963.

The present season is the dull one in postoffice business, but, even if there should be no increase in the parcel post work, about 500,000,000 parcels would be handled during the first year. Some postmasters estimate the first year's total will be one billion packages.

From the more remote sections of the country, postmasters report merchants are preparing to extend their fields to the rural districts through the new system, and farmers are preparing to send products to cities and towns upon the opening of the spring season.

The preliminary appropriation for the establishment of the parcel post has been exhausted, and Postmaster General Hitchcock today asked for an additional appropriation of $750,000.

HIGHWAY WANTED OCEAN TO OCEAN

Gov. Craig Asks Southern Executives to Name Delegates to Asheville Convention.

Asheville, N. C., February 6.—Governor Locke Craig today issued a request to the governors of the southern states asking that they appoint delegates to the convention of the Southern Highway association, which is to be held at this city February 12. The convention has been called for the purpose of perfecting plans for the construction of a highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts, far enough south to permit all-the-year-round travel. It is planned to make it available for motorists who are unable to use the roads situated farther north during the winter months. It is said that a committee will be appointed to ask congress to make an appropriation of $25,000,000 to aid in the work of constructing the highway.

The promoters of the movement plan to interest all good roads associations in southern and western states in the project, and if the road is constructed as planned, numerous highways will connect with it, affording side trips for automobilists to various southern and western cities not touched by coast-to-coast roads. The first step looking to securing the co-operation of state legislatures was taken at Raleigh a few days ago, when the North Carolina state senate and legislature adopted resolutions asking that Governor Craig appoint delegates from this state to the coming meeting.

It is planned to connect Los Angeles or San Diego, Cal., with Morehead City, N. C. It is said that Baltimore probably will be named as the eastern terminus.

MERCER AROUSED OVER EDITORIAL

Game Warden Replies to Savannah Paper's Comment on De Soto Case.

In the issue of January 31 of The Savannah Morning News appears an editorial upon "The De Soto Game Law Case," which has aroused the wrath and indignation of State Game Warden Jesse Mercer, who has expressed himself upon the subject in terms which are quite to the point.

The facts in the De Soto and Ward Allen cases are these:

The De Soto hotel was recently tried upon the charges of buying and having in its possession summer ducks, and was convicted upon both counts. Ward Allen is alleged to have been the man who killed the ducks and sold them to the hotel. Joint cases were made, but when they came up for trial were separated. Allen was tried on the day following the De Soto trial, but it was agreed that the De Soto verdict should remain sealed until after the Allen trial, so that the verdict might not influence the jurors in the Allen case. The testimony against Allen was substantially the same as that upon which the hotel was convicted, but three jurymen on the Allen jury stood out for acquittal and the case resulted in a mistrial.

Editorial Doubts Law Violation.

Says the editorial:

"Now, as the jury in the Allen case failed to reach a verdict is there not such a doubt as to whether there was a violation of the state game law as to amount to a reasonable doubt—such a doubt as to justify a verdict of acquittal?"

Warden Mercer says:

"Out of the twenty-four jurymen in the two cases there were twenty-one who did not doubt but that both defendants were guilty and but three who apparently did doubt it. The jury in the De Soto case found the hotel guilty on both counts within a few minutes. The jury in the Allen case would have been bound by the verdict in the De Soto case except for the fact that the cases were separated. The jury in the De Soto case, however, was disqualified in the Allen case, and, of course, the number of jurors from which the jury could be selected was correspondingly reduced and the state was forced to take his next-door neighbor and, it appears, two others of Allen's close personal friends to serve on his jury. It was these three men who were willing to stand out against his conviction in the face of the plainest evidence."

"It is fair to assume," says The Savannah News, "that the hotel people didn't knowingly violate the law, didn't know that the ducks were summer ducks, but accepted them on the authority of Mr. Allen that they were not. There is no better authority on ducks than he is; at least, he has been a hunter long enough to know every species of ducks that visits this section of the country."

"Allen Is a Game Hog."

Warden Mercer again is of a different opinion from that of The News.

"Allen," he says, "is an authority on duck killing, and not on duck life. He is a game hog and not an authority on the habits of ducks, their feathers, the formation of their bodies and other details the intimate knowledge or which is necessary to constitute a man as an authority. The state had three scientific hunters who know these things and were able very readily to convince the jury in the De Soto case that they did know what they were talking about."

On the ground that if the De Soto hotel violated the law, it did not do so intentionally, but through deliberate violation upon the part of Allen, The News asks the question: "Is the game law in all respects a wise one?"

Warden Mercer was surprised that The News, or any one, should ask the question, especially upon such grounds, "for," he says, "it is contended that it was an intentional violation on the part of the hotel. The court explicitly charged the jury that intent had to be shown before a verdict of 'guilty' could be returned. Certainly Allen was guily of intentionally violating the law and the state will find a jury that will find that verdict. Nobody but a fool would expect Allen to admit his guilt.

Calls Editorial "Biased."

"Just to show that the editorial in The News was written on the bias," says Warden Mercer, "read these sentences from the article: 'Wouldn't there have been a better chance of doing justice by trying the case against Mr. Allen first? If no verdict were found against him there would be the very best reasons for saying that there was no case against the hotel.'

"Why could not The News reverse the proposition? If the hotel was guilty, as the jury's verdict shows, Allen, then, must have been guilty. I am perfectly willing to admit that it is impossible for Allen to be innocent and the hotel people guilty.

"If Allen couldn't get justice in the three months—for it was delayed that long—in which he had to work up his case among his friends, where and how, pray, could he get it? And, at that, Savannah has no great record for convicting lawbreakers."

SAWMILL EXPLODES AND DEALS DEATH TO YOUTH

While he was standing near his uncle's sawmill, John E. Mangum, of 143 Kelly street, was instantly killed yesterday by the explosion of the engine. The accident happened in Piedmont, Ala., where he had gone only a few days ago to pay a visit to his uncle. Telegrams telling of the death were received by his mother, Mrs. E. T. Swinney, in Atlanta.

Mr. Mangum was only 19 years old, and besides his mother he is survived by two brothers, Harlie and Roy Mangum, and by four sisters, Mrs. Frank Silvey, Mrs. James Connutt, Miss Pearl and Miss Plummer Mangum. The body will be brought to Harry G. Poole's chapel and will probably be buried in Atlanta, the arrangements to be announced later.

I. C. CLARK ASSAULTED BY NEGRO WHO ESCAPES

Returning to Atlanta from Birmingham with a negro prisoner who had skipped his bond and had been captured, I. C. Clark, a well-known professional bondsman, was attacked by the negro last night as the train was pulling into the Terminal station. They were in the platform at the time and the prisoner struck Clark several blows suddenly and then made his escape. The negro's name was Will Houseworth, alias Will Johnson. He was arrested some time ago for "blind tigering" and I. C. Clark went on his bond.

BAPTISTS TALK OF CO-OPERATION

Practical Business Men Address Convention of Laymen at Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., February 6.—Co-operating agencies and methods were the general topics of today's sessions of the Baptist Laymen's Missionary convention being held here, and the various phases of the subjects were discussed in the most part by practical business men who presented their views in terse, concise manner based upon their personal experience, and educators who have made the question of missions a life study.

The sessions were attended by the usual large number of delegates and the same interest that has marked the convention showed no abatement. H. S. Mallory, of Selma, Ala., presided over the morning session when the general topic of co-operation was under consideration. The presiding officer made an interesting talk on "Laymen and Kingdom."

Other addresses were "The place of state missions in the missionary program," by Dr. J. W. Gillon, secretary of the Tennessee Mission board: "The Christian School and the Missionary Enterprise," by Dr. W. W. Landrum, Louisville, Ky.; "The Sunday School, a Great Missionary Opportunity," by Professor R. E. Gaines, Richmond, Va.; "Theological Seminary Contribution to Missions," by President E. Y. Mullins, of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, Louisville; "Putting the Kingdom First," by President W. L. Poteat, Wake Forest college, N. C.

Dr. G. C. Gavage, of Nashville, presided over the afternoon session, which opened at 2 o'clock, and gave a brief but instructive address on "Making Business Sacred."

Other addresses for this session were: "Our Offerings in Contrast With Our Resources," A. B. Caldwell, publisher, of Atlanta, Ga.; "Weak Points in Our Financial Methods," Dr. J. W. Million, Hardin college, Mexico, Mo.; "Out of the Ruts," or "A Better Way," Dr. C. W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church, Atlanta, Ga.

John R. Pepper, chairman executive committee of Laymen's Missionary Movement, Methodist Episcopal Church South; Charles A. Rowland, chairman executive committee Laymen's Missionary Movement of Presbyterian Church, United States; John A. Patten, LL. D., Chattanooga, former president General Laymen's association, Methodist Episcopal Church; Rev. Loaring Clark, D. D., Chattanooga, and Rev. Ira M. Boswell, Chattanooga, presented fraternal greetings.

The closing session was held tonight, Joshua Levering, president, presiding, and was devoted largely to impressions of the convention and reports from various states.

A shock to the delegates came today with the announcement that J. T. eHnderson, secretary of the convention, had been found unconscious in his apartments in a local hotel, suffering from several serious cuts about the head and face. It was announced that Secretary Henderson had fainted and fallen, striking his head on the furniture.

Mr. eHnderson had been on the verge of a nervous breakdown on account of overwork, and the fact that suit had been instituted in Bristol, his home town, seeking to hold Henderson and other directors of the defunct Citizens' bank responsible for losses to depositors. Tonight the injured secretary was able to leave his room for a few minutes, but declined to make a statement.

No place for the next meeting of the laymen's convention has been fixed.

"Bills-Bills-Bills-& for BUTTER!"

Mrs. Housewife, we'll tell you how to save some money and reduce your monthly household expenses. Butter is the bugbear on your monthly bills and, with butter at present high prices, it's really extravagance to use butter anywhere except on your table. Discard butter from the kitchen, and use Cottolene.

Cottolene is better than butter for cooking; it is richer and will go one-third farther; it costs much less than butter; it will give just as good or better results. Why not, then, try the experiment?

Cottolene

is a vegetable fat — made from the purest and choicest cotton oil. It contains not an ounce of hog fat.

Cottolene makes delicious pastry—crisp and flaky. For frying, it can be heated to a much higher temperature than butter or lard and forms a coating which prevents the absorption of the fat.

SPICED CLOVERS

Sift together two and one-half cups of flour, two-thirds cup of sugar, one teaspoon salt, two teaspoons cinnamon and four teaspoons of baking powder. Chop into this one-half cup Cottolene and moisten with milk until almost as soft as biscuit dough. Roll out one-third of an inch thick and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar, well mixed, then cut into tiny rounds. Place in threes (like clover leaves) in pans and bake in moderately hot oven. Serve warm with butter, honey or marmalade.

REFUSING TO DOFF HAT, NEGRO FELLED BY WAITER

A score of diners in the Savoy cafe, many of whom were girls and women, witnessed an encounter between a waiter and negro deliveryman yesterday afternoon that resulted in the black being felled with a heavy club that inflicted a deep gash in his forehead.

He was Allen Broughton, employed with the Chelena & Cefalu market. He was carried to Grady hospital, and probably has a fractured skull. The waiter, Charles Chrones, a Greek, was arrested, and will be tried before Recorder Broyles this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The encounter occurred over the negro's refusal to remove his hat while walking through the cafe.

SLATON LECTURES ON PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

Professor William M. Slaton, superintendent of the public schools of Atlanta, delivered an address last night before the Jewish Alliance, at 90 Capitol avenue, his subject being "The Public School System." The address was heard by a large number of people. It was one in a series of Wednesday night addresses instituted by the Jewish Alliance.

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED IN VIADUCT HOLD-UP

A suspect has been arrested for alleged complicity in the robbery of Davis Kilman, of 286 East Fair street, who was waylaid and beaten on the Hill street viaduct Wednesday night. He is L. W. Berkstein, 31 years old, a chauffeur, living at 9 Foundry street. He denies all connection with the hold-up, and declares he can prove satisfactory alibi.

Kilman now lies in Grady hospital with a fractured skull and in a dangerous condition. He was robbed of $100 in currency by two white men.

ACCURACY OF STORY NOT UPHELD BY JUDGE

In the trial of Policeman H. T. Adams and Britt Craig, a reporter for The Constitution, Recorder Broyles did not uphold the accuracy of the story that caused the altercation between the two, as was reported, but stated that inasmuch as the story did not implicate the policeman, he had no right to brand it false. "The lie," he declared, "legally constituted the first lick."

CONGREGATION TO GIVE TITHES FOR NEW CHURCH

Athens, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) Eighty-five members of the new Baptist Tabernacle congregation organized here four months ago have entered into a contract to give one-tenth of their incomes to the church. They are at present worshipping regularly in a tent—till a building is erected next fall on the lot they have purchased. In four months they have raised $4,000 for the church. Meetings have been held on more than half the nights since the church was established and there have been additions to the membership at every stated service held since the church was instituted.

OFFERING "QUAIL ON TOAST," PARTRIDGE CAFE IS BAGGED

"Quail on toast," the alluring promise held forth by the bill of fare of the Partridge cafe, on Alabama street, delighted the gaze and (it is whispered) the tastes of a very discriminating public, until the news finally reached the ears of Will V. Zimmer, Fulton county's watchful game warden.

Now the powers that be in Fulton county, represented in the person of Lowry Arnold, the solicitor, say that it is against the law of Georgia to serve quail in a restaurant. A number of restaurant men say it is not unlawful, under certain conditions; but, when it comes to swearing out warrants, it is the opinion of Lowry Arnold that counts.

Therefore journeyed yesterday Will V. Zimmer to the Partridge cafe to see for himself. He picked up the bill of fare and read the bold emblazonment, "Quail on toast."

"Ah, I'll have some," quoth Will V. Zimmer. The proprietor answered that he was very sorry, but they were all gone. Thinking that possibly he had been "put wise," Mr. Zimmer proceeded in his official capacity to delve into the ice boxes of the restaurant to see if there were, indeed, any "quail on toast," or off toast, for that matter. He found none. Nevertheless, they had been advertised on the bill of fare, reasoned Mr. Zimmer, therefore they must have been sold. Incidentally, he says, he had available evidence from people who said they had bought quail there. So the game warden swore out an accusation Thursday afternoon against Eli Chotas, proprietor of the restaurant, and he now faces trial in the city court on the charge of "selling quail." His bond has been set at $200.

The charges follow up, by the way, Mr. Zimmer's declaration of a vigorous enforcement of the game laws, which he made when he took his office about ten days ago. It is explained that, according to the Georgia law passed in 1911, a man can kill quail and cook them for himself and family to his heart's content, but he can't cook them for his neighbor, and he can't even pass them around free in his restaurant, no matter what the name of the restaurant implies.

A. B. & A. EARNINGS SHOW INCREASE

Receivers File Quarterly Report of Operating, Earnings and Expenses.

H. M. Atkinson and E. T. Lamb, receivers of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, the Georgia Terminal company in Atlanta and the Alabama Terminal company in Birmingham, have submitted to the clerk of the federal court their report for the months of September, October and November.

The report shows that the operating earnings for the month of September were $262,275.52, and the month of October they were $313,897.53, while for November the figures were $294,272.90, making a total of $870,445.95. The operating expenses for the month of September amounted to $210,055.93, while for October they were $225,475.14, and $223,613.35 during November—a total for the three months of $659,144.43.

The month of September showed a net deficit, the report says, of $2,395.83, while October gave a net surplus of $30,619.40, and November a net surplus also amounting to $14,082.77. The report asserts that the bank balances, cash and cash items, at the close of December 31 amounted to $205,664.51.

DEATH STRIKES JUROR WHILE MAKING VERDICT

BEAVERS DEBATE COMMISSION FORM

Judges Split and Ask for More Information After the Arguments.

The second monthly debate of the Beavers' club was pulled off in Beavers' club hall, at 57½ East Hunter street, last night.

While the question in point was, "Is a Commission Form of Government Democratic?" this was not at all the question that puzzled the judges. When the argument had been concluded and the judges retired they were confronted with the problem of what is a commission form of government? Upon this technical question the judges split and were unable to render a unanimous decision.

The judges were Aldine Chambers, James E. Warren and Lawton Riley. Now, when the late election was held upon the question of whether Atlanta should have a commission form of government, most citizens of Atlanta will recall that—but how the individual members of the committee of judges stood upon the question at that time is aside from the story.

Mayor Pro Tem. Warren rendered the decision for the judges.

"The committee was uncertain," he said, "as to just what was meant in the present question by a commission form of government. If it was meant that a commission form of government included the initiative, referendum and recall, the committee would decide in favor of the affirmative, but if the question meant that a commission form of government meant merely a commission of five men to govern a city the committee naturally, would decide in favor of the negative."

The ultimate result was that the committee restricted itself to the five commissioners proposition and gave the decision to the negative.

The speakers were: J. T. Dabney, affirmative; W. M. Hairston, negative; J. R. McMichael, negative, and W. C. Hendricks, negative.

A Sale of Dress Goods

Today at Nine O'Clock

59c does splendid service today.

It spells opportunity in big, plain, economical letters. We have set about to clear away a quantity of odd pieces of dress goods.

But the contents of this sale are the best proofs of this—

59c For Materials Regularly $1.00 to $1.50 a Yard

And they are materials for many, for most, of your spring needs—

Broadcloths, Cheviots, Prunellas, Batistes, Serges, Lansdownes, smart mixture weaves and plaids, 40 to 54 inches wide. Just about any color—no black—that you might want—tan, gray, shades of blues, green, and even light blue and pink. And now, with so many women in the midst of their spring sewing, there is no question that they will go quickly at 59c a yard.

Choose the Silks That You Like Best

And Instead of Paying $1.00 to $1.75, Come Today at Nine O'Clock and Pay

59c a Yard

Beautiful silks worth every penny of their former prices—

But we must make way for other silks soon to arrive.

There are perhaps one hundred different pieces to choose from—an elegant, representative lot of fancy messalines and taffetas, plain taffetas, black, white and colors, plaid silks, Persian silks and rich brocades.

You will see in them just the silks you want for spring dresses, waists and the like—whether your taste runs to the simple patterns in modest colors, or whether you choose the gay and elaborate patterns that mark the brocaded silks and the plaids and the Persians.

They are 18 to 36 inches wide.

Not one is worth less than $1.00 and some were priced at even more than $1.75.

With these, and at the same price, we have put a very comprehensive assortment of 85c foulards.

CLEMSON AND TECH IN TWO BATTLES

Fives Play Here Friday Night---In Clemson Saturday Night.

The Clemson and Tech basketball teams will play two games of basketball this week, one in Atlanta and the other in Clemson, these being the first intercollegiate basketball games that Tech has played since 1909.

The first game will be played at the Crystal Palace at Tech flats tonight and the student body is expecting to attend the game and cheer the first efforts of its varsity basketball aggregation.

The Clemson aggregation is confident of its ability to retrieve some of the lost fortune of its football teams by copping the two basketball battles, the second game to be played in Clemson the following night.

Miss Kate Cooper will be sponsor for the Tech boys, and Miss Frances Connally for Clemson, at the Tech-Clemson basketball game Friday night.

COLUMBUS PLAYS THREE HARD GAMES

Birmingham and Mercer in Columbus and Birmingham in Birmingham.

Columbus, Ga., February 6.—(Special.)—The Columbus Young Men's Christian association basketball team, reputed Southern basketball champions, have three hard games on tap during the next few days.

Friday night the Birmingham Athletic club comes here for a game that is considered one of the most vital of the entire schedule of the Columbus aggregation and one on which t title really hinges.

This will be the first of two games between the two teams, the return engagement to be played in Birmingham on Wednesday night of next week.

On Monday night the Mercer university basketball team comes here for a game, giving the locals three games in six days' time, and all of them hard battles.

TITLE BATTLE ON SATURDAY

The basketball game that will have much to do with the ultimate ranking of the southern basketball teams this season will be played here Saturday night, when the Birmingham and Atlanta Athletic club basketball teams meet.

This is the second meeting between these two teams the coming season, the first game being played in Birmingham a couple of weeks ago, the Birmingham five being victorious by the count of 27 to 15, in a gruelling battle.

The local quintet has not been defeated on their home floor this season and they are confident of returning the dose that the Birmingham club handed them in Birmingham. The local five must win the contest to stay in the running for the Southern title.

One thing in favor of the local quintet copping this game is that they will present a stronger line-up than they were able to muster when the two aggregations met in Birmingham. Tulu Forbes, the star forward of the team, will get into the battle.

Atlanta.	Positions.	Birmingham.
Smith	R. F.	B. Ritchie
Forbes	L. F.	McGowan
DuBard	C.	G. Ritchie
Carter (Capt.)	R. G.	Wharton
Weaver	L. G.	Seals

A referee has not been decided upon, but it is likely that Howell Peacock, athletic director at Georgia, will be the man.

GEORGIA SENIORS WIN FOOTBALL TITLE

Athens, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) The seniors at the University of Georgia won the title in the interclass football games, but the sophomores have copped the rag in the race for first place in the basketball series. The concluding games at basketball were played yesterday evening and resulted in the following scores: Sophomore, 33, and freshmen, 10; juniors, 19, and seniors, 15. The averages of the classes now in the two series played in the interclass games of football and basketball are as follows: Juniors, 6; sophomores, 6; freshmen, 3, and seniors, 5.

The baseball series and the track events are yet to be played, and they will count in the winning of the championship of class athletics for the handsome sweaters to be given the class team making the highest number of points in all the events.

A Cracker a Day for Fans

4---Dave Callahan

DAVE CALLAHAN.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fourth of a series of daily articles introducing the prospective 1913 Crackers.

David James Callahan, centerfielder of the 1912 Crackers and candidate for the same position on the 1913 team, is an eligible bachelor. Girls, here's a conquest.

Mr. Callahan is a handsome, dark-haired young man of 23 summers, a jovial son of the Emeral Isle. He was born in Seneca, Ill., July 20, 1889.

Dave is 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 178 pounds, bats left-handed, but throws right-handed. He is considered one of the fastest men that ever played in the Southern league and one of the best outfielders that ever caught a fly in this section.

Dave had an off season last year, such as all good ball players have in their history, but he is confident of his ability to deliver the brand of goods that made him one of the most feared players in the Southern league during the season of 1911, with New Orleans.

Callahan has been in professional baseball three years. In 1910 he was with Eau Claire, Wis., Toledo and Cleveland. He was purchased by New Orleans in 1911 and played the entire season with the pennant winning Pelicans.

Dave played the first part of the 1912 campaign with Frank's Pelicans and was then bought by the Crackers for the largest sum paid by one Southern league club to another for a player already in the league.

Callahan will report in excellent shape. He says he has been hunting, skating, skiing and running cross-country, all winter, is in fine fettle and anxiously awaiting the tap of the gong for the coming campaign.

Callahan has a slide into the bags that is peculiarly all his own. Traveling at tremendous speed he hits the dirt and arises with the same motion. Thus if the opposing fielders momentarily juggle the ball or let it get by, he is in position to start at once.

Whitney Defeats Russell In Ten Furious Sessions; Beats Him at His Own Game

RUSSELL'S MANAGER ADMITS WHITNEY WON DECISION

Tommy Walsh, manager of Frank Russell, admitted after the fight that Whitney was entitled to the decision. He said: "Whitney was entitled to the decision. I have no kick to make on Referee Saul's decision. Whitney fought the better fight. I was very much disappointed in the showing that Russell made. He lost his head at times and would not listen to instructions from his corner. I believe that this Whitney is a great little fighter and deserving to go up the ladder. We never underestimated his game at any time. I believe Whitney is one of those kind of fighters that the better man that he goes against the better fight he puts up. Atlanta is a grand town and will support the best boxing. A match with Joe Thomas and Whitney would be a great card, the winner to meet Battling Nelson."

By Dick Jemison.

Frank Whitney, the "Fighting Carpenter" of Cedar Rapids, added to his brilliant record in the south by taking into camp at the Auditorium-Armory last night Frankie Russell, of New Orleans.

The boys were well matched, and from every standpoint it was one of the best bouts that has ever been staged in this city. Both fought furiously and at stages came together head to head in the center of the ring, in fierce exchanges.

Whitney was clearly entitled to the decision, and the majority of the fans voiced their approval when Referee Mike Saul raised Whitney's glove in token of victory. Naturally there were a few dissenting voices, but they were very few.

Russell had a trifle edge in the first round. In the tenth he sprung a great rally, though even at that the exchange was fairly even. However, Russell is given the benefit of the doubt and the round.

The second, fifth and sixth rounds were even, the remainder Whitney's, most of them by a wide margin.

Russell rallied in the tenth round as a drowning man would clutch at a straw. He had everything to gain by mixing it, and a knockdown would have resulted to his credit probably in sufficient measure to overcome the lead Whitney had at the opening of the final chapter, but he got just as good as he sent.

Carried Fight to Russell.

With the exception of the final round, Whitney carried the fight to Russell, chasing him into a corner and pummelling him with volleys of rights and lefts.

Russell had to be cautioned by the referee about his butting and in the tenth round it was so palpable that it was sufficient cause for Referee Saul to give the fight to Whitney then and there.

Running into a clinch in a neutral corner on the west side of the ring, Russell deliberately jumped from the floor, throwing his whole weight behind the butt that he sent to Whitney's chin.

Russell had a slight edge in the first round, jabbing Whitney with a straight left and shooting a left hook after a right counter to the jaw. An even exchange resulted in the center of the ring as the bell rang. The second round was tame, no damage being done on either side.

Whitney jabbed Russell in the face repeatedly with his left at the opening of the third round. Coming into close quarters, the two fought hammer and tongs, Russell playing for the body and Whitney for the face. So fierce was their slugging that they both went through the ropes and had to be helped back by spectators. The exchange was even, but a trifle edge went to Whitney on the points he piled up by his straight lefts.

Whitney rushed Russell at the start of the fourth, peppering him with uppercuts to the body and face. Breaking, he went back in again, and it looked like he had Russell, but the New Orleans boy was strong and fresh as a daisy, and in a couple of head-to-head exchanges that followed, Whitney again showed his superiority. Russell shot two lefts to the face in this session, his others being of no moment.

The fifth and sixth rounds saw the boys boxing at long range for the early part, and then swapping punches head to head with no advantage for either side.

Russell Tries a Trick.

In the seventh, the foxy Russell tried to put one over on Whitney by feigning that he was hurt, after Whitney had rushed him to the rope. Whitney was not taken in by his trick, refusing to open up, but peppering his face with straight lefts from long range. This round was Whitney's a mile.

The eighth was also Whitney's easily. His straight left jabs sent Russell's head back, while he uppercutted and hooked with his rights. A right uppercut by Whitney towards the close of the round made Russell's teeth rattle. It was the best blow of the fight.

Whitney forced the battling in the ninth, showering rights and lefts to the face, hooking with his right, sending straight lefts to the jaw and showering both hands to the body. Russell landed a beautiful left to the face towards the close of the round. But most of his left-hand swings went wide of their mark, Whitney stepping inside of them and letting them wrap around his neck.

The tenth was a hammer-and-tongs affair, Russell being the aggressor. Blows were showered by both men so fast that they were hard to keep track of. The crowd yelled itself hoarse when head to head they hammered for fully a minute, the exchange being slightly in Russell's favor, though Whitney was in no danger.

Russell's inability to time his left swing, the fact that he used his right but seldom and his butting cost him the decision, coupled with Whitney's forcing of the fighting in nine of the ten rounds and the way he met Russell at any style of boxing he started.

Kid Young Wins Again.

Kid Young knocked out Young Cullan, of Macon, in the first round of a scheduled eight-round semi-windup, three vicious right uppercuts to the wind doing the damage.

Joe Bernstein, of the Seventeenth, knocked out Ed Walker, of New York, in the third round of a scheduled six-round bout. Both scored knockdowns in this round, it being a matter of the man with the better staying powers lasting out the battle. Both were completely exhausted and when he got to his dressing room Bernstein had to be revived. He did not know he had won the battle until some one told him.

Arthur Worthy knocked out Young Sam McVey in the second round of a scheduled four-round preliminary, and Kid Superior got the decision over Young Abe Attell after four rounds of fast milling in the second preliminary.

ATHLETICS BRIGHTEN UP RAPIDLY AT TECH FLATS

Things athletic have taken a hold with a rush at Tech flats during the past few days. The baseball team had its first outdoor work-out on Wednesday, the track team had a slow jaunt around the cinders and a large force of workmen were out remodeling the field.

All the old men of the track team are back on the job and with the promising new men that have turned out the Jackets will be stronger than ever in field sports during the coming season.

A large squad of candidates reported to Coach Heisman for the first baseball practice. From the present outlook a rosy tint has been placed on the baseball prospects, provided, of course, a reliable pitcher is developed, which has been the bane of Coach Heisman's existence for the past two seasons.

Work is being rushed on the handsome new stadium at the school and it is hoped to have the field and the stands in shape to accommodate the crowds when the spring baseball schedule starts.

BALENTI SPENDING WINTER IN ALASKA

Mike Balenti, shortstop of the Chattanooga team last season, drafted by the St. Louis Browns, is spending the winter with his wife and baby with their relatives in the cold regions of Alaska.

Balenti is enjoying his off season immensely, so he writes, and is in fine fettle as the result of the winter outdoor sports that he has been enjoying.

CHANCE ARRANGES GAMES WITH SKEETERS

New York, February 6.—Frank Chance, the new manager of the New York club, of the American league, who is starting east today to take up his duties, has arranged three practice games a week with the Jersey City club, of the International league, during the month of March in Bermuda. The Jersey City club has trained in Bermuda before, but the New York club is making an experiment in going there this spring. On the days unengaged with the Jersey "Skeeters" the first and second teams of the New Yorks will play against each other.

TY COBB DENIES SIGNING; $15,000 SALARY GUESSWORK

Augusta, Ga., February 6.—(Special.)—Under a San Francisco date line appears the information that Ty Cobb will receive $15,000 a year for his work with Detroit.

The information purports to come from a letter to Oscar Vitts, of Detroit, from President Navin.

At his home in Augusta Ty says there is no truth in the statement. He says he and Mr. Navin have not yet reached an agreement, and, of course, no contract has been signed.

He states further that the salary he is asking is known only to Mr. Navin and himself and the $15,000 idea is purely guesswork on the part of the scribes.

GLENN RESIGNS AS A. A. C. HEAD

Henry Porter, Vice President, Succeeds Him in Running Affairs.

"Bill" Glenn, president of the Atlanta Athletic club, resigned his connection with the club in that capacity, according to an announcement that appeals in this month's Bulletin, the monthly paper of the club.

The Bulletin says:

"Announcement is made herewith of the resignation of W. H. Glenn from the office of president of the Atlanta Athletic club, and the assumption of the duties of that office by Vice President J. H. Porter.

"Mr. Glenn consented to take the office at the last annual election only after urgent requests from the membership and the governing board. His personal business occupied so much of his time and attention, he stated at the time, that it would be an injustice to the club for him to undertake the duties of the executive office. Finally, however, he was prevailed upon to accept the nomination and was unanimously elected. Since that time his personal business has required more and more of his time, until recently it became impossible for him to continue any outside work. This position is thoroughly understood and appreciated by the club members, who know that, as general manager of the local street railway system, Mr. Glenn has abodt all he can possibly attend to. It is with sincere regret that the governing board accepted his resignation from the office of president.

"Vice President Porter is perhaps the best equipped man in the club for the discharge of the duties now entrusted to him. He has been connected with the financial end of the institution, in an active capacity, for fifteen or more years, and has proven one of the most earnest and faithful friends the club ever had. His native ability and long experience in the affairs of club peculiarity fit him for the position he will occupy, and his wide popularity will be an additional asset for the institution."

Baracas 11, Company H 8.

By Ogle Grice.

Two surprises came last night in the Fulton league, when Company C walloped the Y. M. C. A. team 25 to 1, and the Baracas won their first game of the season, defeating Company H, 11 to 8.

The drubbing given the Y. M. C. A. five by Company C was one of the most severe ever seen in the league. The association lads could not shoot a single goal, but took advantage of the one foul made by the winners, and on that Scott kept his team's score from being zero.

Company C played the best ball it has shown this season, and is apparently in fine form to meet S. V. D. next Saturday night in the final and decisive tussle.

By winning over Company H, the Baracas tied that team for last place, and as each team has two more games to play, there is bound to be some hard fighting on their part to avoid the cellar.

GEORGIA QUINTET DOWNS TENNESSEE

Athens, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) The University of Tennessee basketball five met defeat at the hands of the University of Georgia quintet here tonight after a strong fight, the final being 38 to 13. During the first half Coach Howell Peacock used his entire scrub team against the Tennesseans and the half ended with the score standing 13 to 6, with the scrubs at the big end.

The guarding feature of the game was unusually excellent, while goal shooting was only mediocre. Lester Liddell and Carter shown for Georgia, while Fender and Morrison, Tennessee's guards, did the work for the visitors.

NEW INDOOR RECORD BY KOLEHMAINEN

New York, February 6.—Hannes Kolehmainen, of Finland, the Olympic distance champion, starting from scratch in a five-mile handicap at the indoor games of the Irish-American Athletic club in Madison Square Garden tonight, made an American indoor record for the distance as well as new records for three and one-half and four and one-half miles during the course of his run. Kolehmainen's time for the five miles was 24 minutes 48 seconds, 11 2-5 seconds better than the record made by George Bonhag in 1909.

A new world's record of 25 feet in putting the 56-pound shot with follow was made by Patrick Ryan, of the Irish-American Athletic club. The former record, 23 feet 11 inches, was made by William Real at Boston, October 4, 1888.

A special 1,000-yard run was won by Abel R. Kiviat in 2:17 2-5. Melvin W. Sheppard was second.

NEW WORLD RECORDS MADE BY SWIMMERS

Chicago, February 6.—Three world's records were beaten here tonight in the Central Amateur Athletic union swimming races in the Illinois Athletic club tank. Perry McGillivray swam 500 yards in 6:15 4-5, beating C. M. Daniels' world's record of 6:21. A. C. Rathel, McGillivray's teammate in the I. A. C., beat the world's figures of :19 2-5 in his 40 yards of the Central A. A. U. championship relay, swimming the 40 yards in :19 flat.

E. W. McGillivray, Berry McGillivray, Raithel and W. C. Woodward, of the I. A. C., swam the 160 yards relay in 1:17 3-5, new figures.

Clemson Loses.

Columbia, S. C., February 6.—The University of South Carolina won the state basketball championship here tonight by defeating Clemson college, 38 to 19. The game was furiously fought and afforded good sport to a fair-sized crowd.

By Ogle Grice.

The Atlanta Athletic club team defeated Wesley Memorial last night 26 to 23 at the Wesley Memorial court, in the roughest game ever played in the Atlanta league.

The Athletic club team was late in arriving, and then demanded time for practice, and hot words flew thick and fast. After ten minutes' of fierce struggling, neither team had scored a field goal, and both teams had missed seven or eight free shots.

Graves, of Wesley, shot the prettiest goal of the game for Wesley, and Hudson shot two for the club. It was at this period that the fighting broke loose. A Wesley player, in a scrimmage with an opponent, planted three vigorous blows in rapid succession. A general melee followed, chief interest centering in the lively scrap between Brannen and Govan.

Game Forfeited Once.

The referee forfeited the game to the Athletic club after the mix-up, but rescinded his decision, and the game continued with less rough playing.

The second half was fast and inaccurate. Anger resulted in nervousness, and the players fumbled easy passes, and missed the basket completely from short range. J. Graves, of Wesley, was injured in the second half and left the game. A couple of long field goals by Falvey, two by Weaver and one by Wright, put the club five safely in the lead for the rest of the game.

WANT FOOTBALLISTS TO WEAR NUMBERS

Princeton, N. J., February 6.—Parke H. Davis, Princeton's representative on the football rules committee, will advocate, at the coming meeting of that body, the adoption of a rule requiring members of football teams to wear numbers. Mr. Davis also will recommend that goal posts be removed from the field of play and set on the rear line of the zone behind the goal line.

WRESTLING SWINDLES BARRED BY CHICAGO

Chicago, February 6.—None of the "crowd which gulled the public in the Gotch-Hackenschmidt fiasco of 1911" will get a permit to stage a wrestling match between Zbyszke and Lurich, heavyweights, according to Mayor Harrison, who today informed Chief of Police McWeeny of his decision. The Gotch-Hackenschmidt match, he referred to as "the labor day swindle at White Sox park in 1911." "I think the sporting public of Chicago can get along very nicely with the small shows which are being given in halls and theaters," declared the mayor.

Match Billiards.

Blalock and Sims will meet in a match game of 14-inch balk line billiards at Dad Elliott's pool and billiard parlors tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

This will be a very interesting exhibition. It is Dad Elliott's idea to stimulate the game of billiards in Atlanta, as is done in other large cities.

W. C. Thompson will act as referee during the game tonight. Admission free.

For every box of Websters purchased retail from Jacobs' 10 stores, Cone's stores or the Oppenheim Cigar company, 9 East Alabama street, 20,000 extra votes will be allowed.

To obtain these votes, evidence of cash purchase from Oppenheim Cigar company must accompany box and bands. Should purchaser desire to retain box and bands, same can be shown at contest room and taken away as soon as sale is verified.

Contestants taking advantage of "quantity bonus votes," previously advertised, can allow labels of above to apply on same and receive votes for both.

Select whichever it seems easiest for you to collect and bring in at one time in order to get "extra votes." Votes for labels are given in addition to above.

Bear in mind this is the last opportunity you will have to pile up votes for your favorite contestant.

This schedule goes into effect February 10, and closes with the contest, 1 p. m. February 14.

KETCHEL AND WOLGAST WANT MURPHY'S GAME

Chicago, February 6.—Larney Lichtenstein today telegraphed James Coffroth, San Francisco, that he would be glad to send Steve Ketchel against "Harlem Tommy" Murphy in the western city February 22, to take the place of Joe Mandot, the southern lightweight, who has been taken ill. Ketchel's claims to recognition are based on his defeats of Patsy Brouillard, "Pal" Brown and Art Stewart. Ketchel is a challenger for the lightweight championship.

Wolgast Wants Bout

Portland, Ore., February 6.—Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, who has been spending some time in Portland, stated today he would accept Coffroth's offer to meet Tommy Murphy in a twenty-round fight in San Francisco February 22 in place of Joe Mandot, provided the promoter would guarantee him $10,000 and expenses. Wolgast also said he had received an offer from New Orleans to box Jack Britton or Joe Mandot in that city some time in March.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

That central Peachtree property will go to $10,000 per front foot, Peachtree north of the Georgian Terrace $1,200, and West Peachtree frontage as far northward as Pine street to $1,000, within the year, is the prediction of W. L. DuPree, of the W. L. & John O. DuPree agency.

The following statistics given out on Thursday by Mr. DuPree are of great interest not only to realty men, but to the public generally:

"No. 308 Peachtree, 52 by 128, sold in March, 1911, for $32,500; in the summer of the same year for $37,500; in the fall for $42,500, and last year at $1,250 a front foot, or $65,000—$295 per foot annual enhancement.

"The old Dr. Todd residence, 322 Peachtree street, 120 feet frontage and running through to West Peachtree, sold in 1909 for $50,000. In 1911, 50 feet on Peachtree sold for $50,000, the original price for the entire 120 feet. In 1912, 70 feet of Peachtree frontage sold for $67,500, and at resale $84,000; $98,000 has been refused for the 70.

"Sixty-eight feet of the West Peachtree frontage sold in 1911 for $14,500, resold for $20,500, and now is valued at $45,000. Sixty feet of the latter frontage sold last year for $14,500, resold for $18,000, resold for $19,500, resold in June, 1912, for $36,000, and sold again the same month for $39,000, or at the rate of $650 a front foot.

History of Nunnally Corner.

"The old homes of J. H. Nunnally and Mrs. Powell at the southeast corner of Peachtree and Currier streets had an interesting experience. Mrs. Powell's home was torn down and Mr. Nunnally's moved back to Currier street so the lots could be subdivided.

"The southeast corner, 122 feet frontage by 191 on one line and 214 on the other, sold as a whole for $54,100 in the spring of 1909, and was subdivided into eight lots, six of which were on Peachtree and two on Currier.

"These sold at auction in March, 1911, for $89,356, and again sold last fall for $189,900, or a profit of $135,800 on the original purchase price. This profit was realized in less than four years and the property would now sell at a considerable advance.

"No. 380 Peachtree street, the home of the late Judge Charles S. Kingsbery, 65 by 256 feet, to Alexander street, sold in March, 1909, for $20,000; in 1911 for $45,000, and now is valued at $110,000, which sum has been refused.

A Remarkable Instance.

"At an auction sale in 1909 the property at 385-387 Peachtree, where the Carl Witt apartment now stands, sold for $9,500 and resold last year for $75,000, an advance of $65,500.

"The Peck property at 449 Peachtree street, 63 by 192 feet, sold last spring for $37,500 and in January of this year for $65,000. A 20-foot lot of this sold last month for $24,000, or $1,200 a front foot.

"The old James O. Harris home, 453 Peachtree, 50 by 150 feet, sold in the autumn of 1911 for $25,000, a year later for $50,000 and last month for $60,000.

"The Rawson home at 455 Peachtree sold in the fall of 1911 for $25,000, in the spring of 1912 for $31,000, and in August, 1912, for $36,000. It is now valued at $60,000, since the adjoining tract, the Harris place, sold for that sum.

A Single Month's Enhancement.

"The old Winecoff place, 485 Peachtree, 50 by 130 feet, sold in April, 1912, for $30,000, in the same month for $35,000, and last month for $50,000. It is now valued at $60,000.

"The northwest corner of Peachtree and North avenue, known as the old Speer place, brought $25,000 in 1909, and $45,000 in January, 1912. A lot 100 feet square was sold for $100,000, and it later was improved at a cost of $20,000, and the frontage brought $115,000, and the same amount of land in the rear $25,000.

"The George Adair property at the southeast corner of Third and Peachtree streets sold in the spring of 1912 for $67,000. In the same year it was sold for more than $100,000. Two hundred and eleven feet of the frontage sold for over $100,000, the rear, on Juniper street, bringing about $30,000. The 211 feet frontage on Peachtree is now valued at $200,000, and the rear at more than $50,000, not including improvments.

"Peachtree's growth has just fairly started, and future generations need not be surprised at anything that happens."

$85,000 Church Building.

Application was made to Building Inspector Hayes Thursday for a permit for the erection of the new church of the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

The application specifies a building to cost $85,000, which will occupy a ground space of 90x100 at Peachtree and Fifteenth streets, in Ansley Park.

Filed with the application are the plans for the building, and the permit will be granted within a few days, when actual construction on the building will be started.

Real Estate Sales.

The Edwin L. Harling agency has sold through John B. Richards to the Southern Realty company two residence properties in Kirkwood for an aggregate consideration of $12,000.

One residence is on Oxford place, the lot being 65x175, and the other is on Gordon avenue, the lot being 54x170, with a rear width of 100 feet.

J. Fred Lewis has sold to Misses Barbara E. and Mary E. Lambdin the southwest corner of Peachtree circle and Seventeenth street, 78x213, for $8,000.

John T. Hale, Jr., has sold to E. H. Shaw 261 Myrtle street, 60x150, residence property, for $8,500.

A. P. Morgan has sold to Eloise L. Oliver the northeast corner of Peachtree road and Terrace drive, 100x275, for $6,000.

Public Sale.

On the first Tuesday in March Forrest & George Adair will offer at the courthouse for the W. B. Lowe estate several parcels, including 41 Castleberry street, 41x100, cornering on the Central of Georgia right-of-way, and six lots on Highland and East avenues, between Fortune street and Alaska avenue.

BUILDING A CITY

WE ARE in the building business, and are helping to build up Atlanta and her suburbs. It is impossible for us to do all of it—so we have made the "building of homes" a specialty. When we build a house we make a friend, then the friend gets us other houses to build; so we keep pretty busy all the time. If you want to own your own home, come to see us now. We can help you in every way.

DETECTIVE BLACK GOES AFTER ALBERT D. WALK

With requisiton papers for Albert D. Walk, City Detective John Black left last night for Detroit, Mich. Walk told Detroit authorities he would waive requisition and would return to Atlanta for trial on the charge of passing a forged check for $275 on a local bank. The requisition papers were obtained, however, in order to be on the safe side.

Under the name of James B. Walker the man arrested lived in Atlanta for several weeks in January, 1911, and is later said to have passed a forged check in New Orleans against Tom Connally, the Atlanta lawyer and clubman.

LOWNDES COMMISSIONERS LOWER DOCTOR'S SALARY

Valdosta, Ga., February 6.—(Special.)—The latest development in the tangle over the appointment of a county physician by the board of county commissioners came when the board cut the salary of Dr. Freeman, the present appointee, to $5 a month, with the intention of forcing him to resign. It is understood that Dr. Freeman will hold the job and continue to serve as before.

At the first meeting of the new board of commissioners, Dr. Schnauss and Dr. Burchett were appointed county physicians, and an effort made to fire Dr. Freeman, the appointee of the old board, who had held the position for two years. On the advice of the state prison commission, the latter declined to give up his office, claiming that his commission came from the latter body. Among the duties of the county physician is a weekly trip to the county convict gang, and the prescribing for all convicts who may be needing medical attention. Calls to the county prisoners and paupers are paid for extra. As each of the weekly trips to the convict gang will probably cost the physician more than his month's salary, the appointment will prove a rather expensive one to the physician.

NOTICE OF INTRODUCTION OF ORDINANCE FOR PAVING STREET.

Notice is hereby given that at the meeting of the Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta, held on the 3d day of February, 1913, an Ordinance was introduced, read, and referred to the Street Committee, asking for the paving of Orleans street between Grant street and Cherokee avenue with old belgian block, and that an Ordinance based on said petition will be introduced and considered, at the meeting of the General Council to be held at 3 o'clock p. m., on the 17th day of February, 1913, being one of the regular sessions of the General Council.

If the Ordinance is passed, said portion of said street will be passed and the cost thereof distributed and collected as provided for by the Charter of the City of Atlanta—only one-third thereof being paid out of the City Treasury and the remaining two-thirds raised by assessment, from abutting property and its owners. If there is a street railroad on the street its proportion of the cost will be first deducted and the City pay one-third and abutting property and its owners the remaining two-thirds.

At the Council meeting aforesaid, opportunity will be given all persons interested to advocate or oppose the passage of the proposed paving Ordinance. WALTER C. TAYLOR, City Clerk.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON HIGHER 11 TO 16 POINTS

Reports of a Better Spot Demand Caused Market to Become Firm.

New York, February 6.—The cotton market was rather more active today and ruled generally steady to firm, on reports of a better spot demand, with the close firm at a net advance of from 11 to 16 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 8 points, with the active months selling 9 to 12 points net higher, right after the call, on covering and scattered buying, which appeared to be inspired by the continued steadiness of Liverpool and overnight reports of a steadier spot situation in the eastern belt.

Realizing by recent buyers checked the advance and caused reactions of 3 or 4 points from the best, during the middle of the morning; but offerings were light enough to be absorbed without any actual weakness, and the market showed renewed steadiness during the afternoon, on continued support from spot interests and covering of shorts. This demand became increasingly active in the late trading, with the market making new high prices for the day just before the close.

The advance in Liverpool was attributed to an increased spot demand and more optimistic reports as to the situation in the Balkans.

Houses with foreign connections did not appear to be active in the local market, but the continent was a buyer in Liverpool. A good part of the early trading here was switching from March to May on the part of various spot interests. March fully maintained its premium, however, and comments as to the action of the revision committee in leaving spot differences unchanged, suggested that prevailing low-grade penalties were satisfactory to contract holders.

Local spot brokers report a slightly better demand from both New England and southern mills and bullish advices from the dry goods district were probably a factor on the day's advance.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, February 6.—Spot cotton steady, unchanged; middling, 12 7-16; sales on the spot, 210 bales; to arrive, 2; low ordinary, 9 1-16, nominal; ordinary, 9¾, nominal; good ordinary, 11½; strict good ordinary, 11¾; low middling, 12; strict low middling, 12¼; middling, 12 7-16; strict middling, 12⅝; good middling, 12 13-16; strict good middling, 13; middling fair, 13 7-16, nominal; middling fair to fair, 13 13-16, nominal; fair, 14 3-16, nominal; receipts, 4,377; stock, 145,164.

Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 5 to 7 points, on good cables and reports that large spot interests were supporting the market in New York.

Scattered selling was in evidence, based mainly on the continued good weather over the south, but it was not in sufficient volume to weigh against prices. Soon after the call, the most active months were 9 to 10 points up. Here profit-takers among scalping longs increased the total of offerings and prices fell off until at the end of the first half hour of business they were 5 points up.

After the middle of the morning, the market was stagnant. Reports from Memphis that the spot demand was improving there did not stimulate buying. The forecast of unsettled weather for the cotton belt prevented short selling in volume. The political situation in Europe was regarded as unfavorable, but, on the other hand, the sales of 12,000 bales on the spot in Liverpool was taken to mean that the foreign mills were still doing a most satisfactory business.

Cotton futures closed steady at a net advance of 1 to 4 points.

Dry Goods.

New York, February 6.—Cotton goods held steady with a moderate trade reached. Jobbers are doing a good business in ready-to-wear lines and in wash fabrics and dress goods. Cotton yarns are somewhat steadier.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, February 6.—Cotton, spot, good business done, prices steady; American middling fair, 7.45; good middling, 7.11; middling, 6.89; low middling, 6.71; good ordinary, 6.31; ordinary, 5.97. Sales, 12,000 bales, including 1,500 for speculation and export, and included 11,300 American. Receipts, 16,000 bales, including 15,700 American. Futures opened quiet and closed quiet and steady.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, February 6.—For several days it has been evident that the market did not want to decline and, having grown tired of sitting still, it advanced 11 to 14 points today and closed firm. Liverpool was better than due and the market opened 4 to 5 up. Most of the advance of the day came during the last quarter, hour of trading and at the close it loked like a market that wanted to do still better. There was talk of an improved spot demand today, although New England mills still seem to be indifferent.

Liverpool is due to come 2 to 3 points up.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, February 6.—Favorable cables from Liverpool and a lack of selling pressure here brought about short covering today, which advanced prices some 12 points. Spot interests were moderate buyers also, and the steady tone maintained during the past few days seemed to give buyers more confidence and, therefore, outside business was soemwhat larger. However, the volume of trading is very limited, but the action of the market would indicate that renewed liquidation or speculative selling will only set in as a result of weakness in the spot situation.

WHEAT ADVANCED ON BRISK BUYING

Commission House Orders Kept Bears Busy in the Last Hour.

Chicago, February 6.—Short sellers of wheat were running to cover in the last hour today, defeated by a steady fire of commission house orders on the bull side. Purchasing was based, to a considerable degree, on unexpected strength in foreign markets. Closing figures have showed an advance of ⅜ to ⅝@¾c net. Corn wound up with a gain of ¾@⅞; oats at a rise of ⅝ and provisions dearer by 7½ to 17½.

Wheat traders generally ascribed the surprising firmness of cable quotations to failure of rains predicted at the united provinces of India, where the crops have recently been reported as withering away. Bears, however, did not seem much impressed with this reason for an advance, nor with dispatches from Russia telling of lack of snow in the fall-sown fields. Generally favorable conditions for the plant in the United States was argued to be more than offset when the absorption of pit offerings reached beyond midday. However, sentiment in wheat veered at once. A buying flurry ensued and the possibility of a crop scare on this side of the Atlantic served as a decided bogey. There was fear, also, that big concentrated interests here had obtained control of the May option. No signs of a reaction were in sight as the final bell struck.

Corn, though easy at first on account of rain in Argentina, bulled later, owing to free buying on the part of large owners. There was also a notable purchasing movement in corn by provision houses.

Oats rose because of wide discount under corn and in consequence of primary receipts being lighter than receipts.

There was an active trade in provisions. Hogs appeared to be scare and lard especially was in persistent demand.

ATLANTA LIVE STOCK MARKET

(By W. H. White, Jr., of the White Provision Company.)

Quotations based on actual purchases during the current week:

Good to choice steers, 1,000 to 1,200 pounds, $5.75 to $6.00.

Good steers, 800 to 1,000 pounds, $5.25 to $5.50.

Medium to good steers, 700 to 850 pounds, $4.75 to $5.25.

Good to choice beef cows, 800 to 900 pounds, $4.50 to $5.00.

Medium to good cows, 700 to 800 pounds, $3.75 to $4.25.

Good to choice heifers, 750 to 850 pounds, $4.50 to $5.00.

Medium to good heifers, 650 to 750 pounds, $3.75 to $4.50.

Mixed to common steers, if fat, 700 to 800 pounds, $4.25 to $4.75.

Medium to common cows, if fat, 700 to 800 pounds, $3.50 to $4.25.

Mixed common, 600 to 800 pounds, $2.75 to $3.25.

Good butcher bulls, $3.25 to $3.75.

Prime hogs, 160 to 200 average, $7.60 to $7.75.

Good butcher hogs, 140 to 160 average, $7.40 to $7.60.

Good butcher pigs, 100 to 140 average, $7.10 to $7.35.

Light pigs, 80 to 100 average, $6.75 to $7.00.

Heavy rough hogs, 200 to 250 average, $6.50 to $7.00.

Cattle are coming more freely and quality is improving with the advance of the feeding period. A good many fed steers are coming and several loads are reported as ready and are expected to be on the market within the next few days. The run of steers lately show better quality and condition than at any time this season. Some good cows in fair flesh are coming. Most loads in this class are mixed. The better weights and grades meet with ready demand at slightly advanced prices, while the middle and inferior grades are in less demand and are hard to sell at present quotations. Market generally is considered active and stronger on the better grades of both steers and cows. Other grades about at a standstill.

Hog receipts lighter following a heavy run for the past week. Quality uneven and badly mixed from both Tennessee and Georgia points. Market stronger on strictly con-fed stock, while mast and peanut-fattened stock are hard to sell at any price.

SENTIMENT STILL IN WALL STREET

Stock Market Operations Were Small and Lack of Interest Shown.

New York, February 6.—The favorite mediums of speculation, by which stock market conditions are gauged, remained virtually on a dead level today. Some of the less active issues moved more widely, but operations in the stocks which "make the market" were perfunctory. Interest lagged and the volume of business fell off considerably. Sentiment was still bearish, but traders on the short side were held in check by fear of overextension of the short interest.

In the opinion of some traders, bear commitments have reached proportions which might spell discomfort for the short interest in the event of the appearance of bullish factors. Traders on the long side were disposed to await developments and the market was allowed to drift.

There was some further selling of coppers, which were heavy throughout the day, but losses were only fractional. The copper group was influenced by a further break in the metal market in London and by reports of substantial concessions in the domestic market

The Harriman shares moved in an uncertain way, being influenced by varying reports concerning the dissolution. Expectations of a definite announcement of the dissolution plan were effective in restricting trading, not only in Union and Southern Pacific, but in the market as a whole.

Weakness cropped out among a number of specialties. Union Bag and Paper preferred, at one time, was down 4 points. Pennsylvania, which has been heavy recently, displayed a better tone.

Engagement of $1,000,000 more gold for South America brought up the total outward movement this year to over $20,000,000, and in view of prevailing conditions in the European money markets, further exports are expected.

Statements of the foreign banks showed no improvement. The Bank of England reported a shrinkage in the proportion of reserve to liabilities. In spite of the gold sent to France from this country, the Bank of France reported an increase in gold holdings of only $675,000.

Business was well distributed in the bond market, but the tone was uncertain. Total sales, par value, $2,150,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Country Produce.

Chicago, February 6.—Butter steady; creameries, 27@34½. Eggs easy; receipts, 5,213 cases; at mark, cases included, 20@23; refrigerator firsts, 17; firsts, 24. Potatoes steady; receipts, 20 cars; Michigans, 45@47; Minnesotas, 43@47; Wisconsins, 42@47. Poultry, alive, steady; turkey, 15; chickens, 14½; springers, 15.

Kansas City, February 6.—Butter, eggs and poultry unchanged.

St. Louis, February 6.—Poultry, chickens, 13; springs, 13½; turkeys, 18; ducks, 16; geese, 13. Butter, creamery, 28@35; Eggs, 23.

New York, February 6.—Butter firm; receipts, 14,187 tubs; creamery extras, 37@37½. Cheese steady; receipts, 1,179 boxes; state whole milk held white average fancy, 16½@17. Eggs firm, unchanged; receipts, 8,779 cases.

Linseed.

Duluth, February 6.—Linseed: Cash, $1.36¼; May, $1.38½; July, $1.40, nominal.

Coffee.

New York, February 6.—Coffee futures opened steady at an advance of 2 to 7 points, on covering of near month shorts, rather better European cables than expected and steady Brazilian markets. Prices improved another point or two during the morning, but later eased off, under realizing on liquidation and local selling, which appeared to be inspired by reports of a poor spot demand. The close was steady and 10 points higher on February, but generally 1 point under to 4 points above yesterday's final figures. Sales, 50,500.

Havre unchanged to ¼ francs lower. Hamburg unchanged to ¼ pfennig lower. Rio 75 reis higher at 7$975; Santos fours, 50 reis higher at 7$850; sevens unchanged. Rio exchange on London, 1-64d lower at 16 21-64d.

Brazilian port receipts, 13,000, against 18,000 last year.

Jundiahy receipts, 5,000, against 5,000 last year.

Today's Santos cable reported fours unchanged.

Sao Paulo receipts, 11,000, against 11,000 yesterday.

Futures ranged as follows:

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, February 6.—Liverpool showed in the demand for spot cotton today the effect upon spinners of the small movement in America, the disappointment over the India crop and the excellent trade in Manchester.

For the past ten days, the foreign markets have shown a better tone than have the American markets. It is evident the decrease in the Indian supply is the cause of the better demand for Japan, which has been felt in Texas for the past week. It was not until the afternoon, when the rumor that the Amoskeg mills had advanced the price of their goods, that our market revived from the very quiet tone of the morning. Then a small demand found only a limited supply for sale, so the close was steady at 14 to 15 points advance. There is little speculation; the improvement has come from a demand from the trade.

Liverpool is due to come 2½ to 3 up.

PLAN TO DISSOLVE HARRIMAN MERGER

New York, February 6.—Plans for the dissolution of the Union Pacific Railroad company and the Southern Pacific company as decreed by the United States supreme court were officially announced in detail tonight after a protracted session of the directors of the two companies. The terms are said, in a statement issued jointly by the roads, to have the approval of the department of justice at Washington and the agreement now awaits confirmation of the court in the federal district where the action originally was taken and by the railroad commission of the state of California.

In accordance with recent intimations the severance of Union Pacific and Southern Pacific results in Union Pacific's absolute purchase of Central Pacific, which has been the bone of contention between the two principal roads of the Harriman system.

The agreement also provides for the sale of all of the Southern Pacific stock held by the Union at 98 5-8 with accrued dividend to the stockholders, common and preferred, of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, other than the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line.

It is understood that a syndicate has been formed under the lead of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and their foreign connections to finance the sale of Union Pacific's holdings of Southern Pacific, amounting to $126,650,000.

The Official Statement.

"The boards of directors of the Union Pacific Railroad company and Southern Pacific company at meetings held today approved plans which have been under consideration by special committee for several weeks and which have been worked out with the attorney general, subject to the approval of the court as follows:

"The purchase by the Union Pacific of the entire capital stock of the Central Pacific, consisting of $67,275,500 par value of common and $17,400,000 par value preferred, for the sum of $104,189,941—the cost at which it stand upon the books of the Southern Pacific company.

Eighty-four million, six hundred and seventy-five thousand five hundred dollars of the amount was to have been paid in stock of the Southern Pacific company held by Union Pacific at par, but legal difficulties having been found in the way, the plan has been changed so that payment is to be made as follows: viz:

"One hundred and twenty-six million six hundred and fifty thousand dollars par value—being the entire amount of stock of Southern Pacific company held by Union Pacific—is to be offered to the stockholders, common and preferred, of the Union Pacific and stockholders of the Southern Pacific company, other than the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line, for subscription at 85 5-8 per cent and accrued dividend. This offer is to be underwritten and subscribers are to receive the dividend payable April 1, 1913 (details to be given later.) The proceeds of $84,675,500 of this stock, less the underwriting commission and expenses, is to be paid over to the Southern Pacific company together with $5,449,000 of the Southern Pacific company's 4 per cent gold bonds and $14,065,461 in cash.

"The attorney general of the United States has assented to the essential features of this plan, but it is, of course, subject to the approval of the district court in which the government litigation is pending, and also dependent upon the approval by the California railroad commission of agreements for certain trackage and running rights in that state. The plan and agreements will be presented to the court and commission with least possible delay."

Sale of Central Pacific.

Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the Southern Pacific company, in discussing the sale of the Central Pacific stock by the Southern Pacific company, stated that, while the directors have not decided what disposition to make of the money thus received, a considerable part of it will be needed in the near future to pay for extensions, equipment and betterments. The amount is sufficient to take care of future requirements, he said, without increase of fixed charges.

Mr. Kruttschnitt also stated at a meeting with the Southern Pacific stockholders' protective committee this afternoon, the plan agreed upon by the boards of the Southern and Union Pacific companies was approved unanimously.

Judge R. S. Lovett, chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific, said in a statement tonight:

"If the plan is consummated, the lease and operation of the Central Pacific by the Southern Pacific company will, of course, cease, and the Central Pacific Railway company will enter upon the operation of its own lines with a complete organization in California, from president down. The president of the Central Pacific will have fully as much authority with respect to those lines as the president of the Southern Pacific company has over its lines.

"The published reports that the Central Pacific is to be leased to or merged into the Union Pacific railroad are without foundation. The Union Pacific's control will be through ownership of stock of the Central Pacific, the operations being carried on by the Central Pacific Railway company and in its own name."

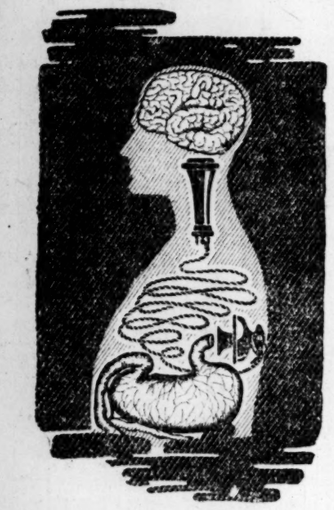
Wickersham to Approve.

Washington, February 6.—While no formal statement was forthcoming, officials of the department of justice tonight indicated that the plan for dissolving the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger, agreed upon by the two roads, would be approved in all probability by Attorney General Wickersham. The attorney general held a long distance telephone conference late in the day with representatives of the railroads in New York, who outlined to him the basis of the agreement. The views of Mr. Wickersham were well known to the roads as the result of several weeks' negotiations.

Don't Say You Can't Eat

You'll Never Have Stomach Trouble After You Read This, and Act on It. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Are the Open Secret.

Thousands of people who hadn't really enjoyed a meal for years have given their stomach a new lease of life through the wonder-workers, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They promptly put and end to flatulency, heartburn, dizziness, sick headache, dyspepsia, burning sensation, brash, fermentation and the other ills attendant upon a disordered stomach.



The Stomach Sends a Message to the Brain the Instant There Is Trouble.

In this day and age of known facts, there is absolutely no excuse for anyone to suffer with stomach trouble, indigestion, sour risings, catarrh of the stomach, gas formations, etc.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are composed of known and approved digestants that help out the gastric juices of the stomach. They are Nature's digestives, the same kind the stomach uses when it is in good health.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not merely aid digestion—they actually digest the food themselves. All the hard work is thus taken off the stomach and it gets a chance to rest and recuperate. The undigested food which formerly produced nauseating gases in the stomach becomes thoroughly digested and as a result provides new brain and brawn and nerve cells to replace natural waste always going on.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are quickly, safely and naturally, just like Nature herself. They are a familiar and standard part of the stock of every properly equipped drug store and are sold at 50c a box.

Those who once try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are never at a loss to know how to overcome any form of indigestion or stomach trouble.

MANY INVENTIONS AT TECH ELECTRICAL SHOW

Along the benches and walls of the various rooms of the electrical building at Tech is a splendid array of electrical inventions and appliances made by the students, which will be shown to the public at the annual electrical show by the seniors Friday and Saturday nights from 7:30 till 10 o'clock.

In the picture is shown one corner of the main room, in which scores of different kinds of electrical machines are shown. In front is a model ship, which is used in a demonstration of a wireless telegraph outfit. It was made by Morrison Montford. On the table beside it is shown a wireless telegraph induction coil and receiving apparatus made by C. S. Hammond, G. W. Land and K. H. Shroeder.

The beautiful electric lamp in the center of the table was made by G. J. Kollock. On the board is an intricate frequency meter, made by W. S. Tutwyler and H. C. Stakely.

Standing just behind the smaller of the two motors shown on the right is Professor H. P. Wood, head of the electrical work. Assisted by Professor F. B. Davenport, he has prepared the entire display of exhibits and trained students in their work.

An interesting feature of the show, which is in another room on the same floor, is the enormous tesla coil made by W. S. Holmes and M. S. Estes. The moving picture machine has been installed in one of the lecture rooms, and will exhibit a film showing interesting electrical work. The model kitchen, where toast and coffee will be prepared by electricity, is expected to attract scores.

THREE ARRESTED FOR FAKE RAID

against the negro man and woman "arrested" in the Balagur home. He stoutly maintains innocence, and declares he has done nothing illegal.

Negro Makes Confession.

Jack Reed, Boswell's "lookout," who has been in the attorney's employ for several years, made a clean confession of the bogus raids. He told detectives that Boswell and the bailiffs had been operating the plan for more than a week, and that the lawyer had obtained as much as $12 for bond fee in one instance.

The police believe that the men who have been performing these alleged fake raids are responsible for most of the complaints that have been made against members of the plain clothes squad. Chief Beavers said last night that he firmly believed the "raiding" bailiffs were the two men who entered the home of Mrs. Rountree, at 191 Luckie street, recently, badly frightening Mrs Rountree and a guest by the intrusion.

Chief Beavers Makes Statement.

"I am positive that these alleged 'bailiffs' are the cause of the numerous 'raids' that have been laid at the door of the plain clothes squads," said Chief Beavers last night. "We have had no complaints of policemen making such raids and arrests. If they had done so, no one in the city would have been more anxious to know of it than I, and no one would be quicker to investigate the complaints.

"The necessity of being cautious and considerate is constantly drilled into all policemen, and especially those of the plain clothes squads. I am satisfied that none are on the force who would make such outrageous blunders of which the police have been accused since the illegal practice of these 'bailiffs.'

"The plain clothes policeman, except for his garb, is identical with the uniform man. He is under the same regulations and operates under the same system. He has no higher authority, and is no more than an ordinary policeman, only that he wears civilian clothes."

Isom Denies Any Wrong Doing.

C. A. Isom, the bailiff arrested last night issued a statement denying all wrong-doing, saying that "I was merely too lenient with the prisoners in granting their request to go by the lawyer's office, instead of taking them direct to jail." He denies having been to either of the houses mentioned and says he is willing to go to either place for identification.

DIVORCE SUIT IS ADDED TO BOSWELL'S TROUBLES

From the declarations in the divorce suit of Mrs. Carrie Lou Boswell against H. J. Boswell, a young lawyer who practices in the police court and in the criminal courts, the question of who was to "wear the trousers" kept them in a constant embrogdio. She says that to carry his point he would at times lock her up in a room and personally mistreat her, going as far as slapping her face and twisting her ear.

In addition to mistreatment, the young wife, who has been married since November, 1910, and is now only 20, alleges that her husband would allow his negro clients to come into their bedroom at night when it was necessary for him to consult with them after office hours, and that on occasions when she was in the way, he would make her get out of bed and go out into a cold hall.

Mrs. Boswell recites that the attorney owns a coal yard at 143 East Hunter street and a soda water and cigar establishment on the same street, besides other property, and that he makes, at least $100 per month. She asks the courts to award her alimony and the right to her maiden name of Carrie Lou Little. Her attorney is Mark Bolding.

PEACHTREE ROAD PARK LOTS IN DEMAND

Georgia Land and Investment Company's New Subdivision, "Out Peachtree," in the Brookhaven District, Proves Popular.

Superb Location—Low Prices Easy Terms

PEACHTRE ROAD PARK is the name of a new subdivision, owned by Georgia Land and Investment Co., 60½ North Broad street, Atlanta, Ga., which is located just off PEACHTREE ROAD, in the Brookhaven district. Lots in this new subdivision are being sold at $275 to $475 each, upon very liberal terms; i.e., a small cash payment and $10 per month. Free taxes are guaranteed each purchaser until deeds have been issued and delivered. Most of the lots are elevated and covered with beautiful shade trees. It is said the car line will be extended in the near future out PEACHTREE ROAD to the SILVER LAKE PROPERTIES, where the OGLETHORPE UNIVERSITY site is located; this will mean a car line in front of PEACHTREE ROAD PARK. At the present time the car line terminates a short distance this side. In view of the big improvements in this section making the location ideal for residences, the ridiculously low price at which these lots are offered there is no better investment for the home-seeker and investor than PEACHTREE ROAD PARK LOTS.

The GEORGIA LAND AND INVESTMENT CO. invites interested parties to call at its office, 60½ North Broad street, for descriptive literature, or to phone them, Ivy 5522, and make an engagement to go out and personally inspect the property.

CRAFT TAINTS ENTIRE FORCE

New York, February 6.—With Police Inspector Dennis Sweeney and three captains under suspension by direction of the police commissioner as results of the confessions of Thomas W. Walsh, captain, and Eugene Fox, patrolman, that they shared graft money with "men higher up," there was an air of expectancy tonight concerning further revelations that appear likely to be made through District Attorney Whitman.

Up to a late hour tonight the movements of District Attorney Whitman were not known. He was not at his home. It was declared by many that he went to Captain Walsh's home, where that officer is lying seriously ill, late in the afternoon, to obtain a supplemental story, one that would furnish a more detailed account than the revelations made by Walsh last night. There was a report also that Mr. Whitman subsequently visited the home of Inspector Sweeney.

If obtained, these indictments will be the most important developments in the exposure of the "system" since the city was aroused to the alliance of its police with gambling and vice by the murder of a "squealing" gambler at the instigation of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker last July.

Walsh's confession was made on his sick bed. It was forced in part by charges made by Policeman Eugene Fox, who pleaded guilty to graft collection last Monday, and turned upon Walsh as the man next above him. Fearing that a heart weakness with which he has long been troubled might foreshadow his death, and wishing to purge his conscience, Captain Walsh admitted taking vice graft to the extent of perhaps $100,00 in a single police precinct.

Half this amount he turned over to those higher up.

AVIATOR CRUSHED AT ARMY GROUNDS

Augusta, Ga., February 6.—(Special.) In making a test before the army aviators today of a new model baby Wright biplane, Aviator Brindley, of Dayton, Ohio, crashed to the ground in the high-powered machine, and narrowly escaped death. He is confined to a hospital with a badly wrenched back and several strained ligatures.

Mr. Brindley was making the test that requires the aviator to alight in a plowed field. He came to the ground too swiftly, and the skids, going into the soft earth, the machine turned over and over, curshing the aviator beneath the wrecked machinery. He was found unconscious, and it was thought at first fatally injured, but a more thorough examination developed his injuries were not so serious.
